Over Hundred Candidates Are Now in Field

Liberals and Bowsrites Yet to Nominate in Vancouver and Conservatives in Victoria

VICTORIA, Aug. 22:—It is impossible to keep track of all the provincial election nominations owing to the fact that a number of the candidates have to be officially approved before being allowed to stand. It is clear that over one hundred men are in the field and most of the Vancouver Liberals and Bowsrites have yet to nominate as well as the Victoria Conservatives or whatever they may like to call themselves.

There seems to be another break in the ranks of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation because the Socialists refuse to accept the C. C. F. plan to compensate owners of industries when the industries are taken over by the state as proposed by Mr. Woodsworth.

The Bows party will not nominate in Vancouver until next month, it is announced. A place is to be made on the C. C. F. ticket in Vancouver for Dr. Lyle Telford while candidates for the Independent C. C. F. have been announced in Vancouver Centre and Vancouver East.

Campaigning is proceeding in the premier's constituency of Saanich. He is being opposed by Norman Whittaker, Liberal; Mrs. J. P. Lewis, C. C. F., and Reeve W. Crouch, independent.

VOTING IS ON TODAY

Pensions Loom Large in Nova Scotia Issues at Polls

Payment Promised

Straight Party Fight Comes to Close in Maritime Province

HALIFAX, Aug. 22:—A bitter struggle over voters' lists ended, political campaigners in Nova Scotia returned to party platforms to discuss issues of the provincial election being held today.

At the end it was a party-to-party fight, with no outstanding issue to split the ranks wider than the gaps resulting from charges that the Conservative government abused the franchise act and counter charges that the Liberal opposition attempted to "pad" the lists. Old age pensions, however, loom large among the main issues with both parties promising to pay.

Leading a force of 30 candidates, Premier Gordon S. Harrington said: "My government will pay pensions to the aged of Nova Scotia not later than July 1, 1934."

Angus L. Macdonald, youthful leader of the opposition who has never held a seat in the legislature, promised "immediate payment of old age pensions" if elected to power.

Unemployment relief measures highway improvements and economic surveys follow closely in importance. Liquor is sold through government stores in Nova Scotia, and neither party put a plank in its platform affecting the act.

Besides the Liberals and Conservatives there are three United Front candidates, two Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and one Labor, completing a list of 66, of whom only 30 can be elected.

Government Program From Premier Harrington's manifesto the government's platform has been constructed as follows:

- 1—Old age pensions will be paid not later than July 1.
- 2—Free school books will be given to pupils whose parents are unable to provide them.
- 3—The government is determined to make Nova Scotia self-sustaining in products of the land and provide an exportable surplus, and plans to encourage establishment of by-product plants in relation to the apple crop, also plants for canning small fruits and vegetables.
- 4—The government will continue its program of highway improvement and pay particular attention to the interior.

FEEDING OF BEEF STOCK

New Policy of Government to be of Assistance to Interior Farmers

PRINCE GEORGE, Aug. 22:—The Dominion government feeder purchase policy offered to farmers in British Columbia is likely to be of great assistance to those wishing to secure good feeder steers this fall. The transportation and hotel expenses of the settler or his agent are paid by the government from point of origin to the stockyards and the railways absorb a generous portion of the regular freight rate in bringing the stock back to the farm. There is a surplus of good feed on many farms in the north-central portion of British Columbia this year, which might be marketed to advantage through livestock. Stocker and feeder prices are low, and with the scarcity of feed on the prairies curtailing the number of stock which will be fed for market, there is every indication that there will be a good margin of profit in winter feeding this year. Stockers brought in early would have a chance to pasture and put on some weight before winter feeding is necessary.

An important factor in such trade with Prince Rupert, Mr. Bowman believes, will rest with the interior producers themselves in the matter of preparing poultry products for market. Special attention will have to be paid to feeding and packing.
