Premier Intends to Keep Canada Money On Its Sound Basis

Suggests, However, That Inflation or Devaluation Might Be Desirable and Possible Under Certain Circumstances

OTTAWA, May 3: (Canadian Press)—An observation which Premier R. B. Bennett interjected during a speech in the House of Commons yesterday on general financial matters forecasting a measure to be introduced shortly respecting money is not to be taken as an indication that the government contemplates any departure from the principle of sound money. It was learned authoritatively. On the question of inflation or devaluation of the dollar, however, it has been stated in reliable quarters that should this be desirable and possible of accomplishment under the circumstances and would not impair the credit of Canada abroad, the Prime Minister would not hesitate to ask for the necessary authority from Parliament.

In a letter to the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Olaf Hansen, member for Skeena, states that he has made strong representations both personally and through correspondence to the department of fisheries and the government in regard to the duty on fish entering United States and vice versa. He has urged that the duty on fish entering American ports be abolished altogether and, falling this, to have the duty on either side the same, namely one cent a pound instead of two.

Mr. Hansen suggested that a strong resolution be sent forward in regard to the matter by the Chamber of Commerce.

Quebec Power Project Casts Its Shadow Once More On Political Stage; Government Gets Warning

TEACHERS' MEETING

Delegates Report on Recent Convention in Vancouver

Fine Speeches

Impressive Messages Delivered by Various Prominent Men

At the regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Teachers' Association last evening, reports of the provincial convention held in Vancouver during Easter week were presented by the delegates and were followed with keen and appreciative interest by the local teachers.

Miss M. Martin spoke on the opening meeting at which Mayor L. D. Taylor welcomed the teachers and at which G. C. McGeer gave a rousing address on "The Money-Changers in the Temple." Mr. McGeer was strong in his condemnation of the present banking system, not that of the local banks but of the policies of the Morgans, Lavelles, Holts and the controllers of the international monetary transactions. The God of Christianity had been replaced by the god of money. The remedy lay in the hands of the people who had vision to place spiritual values above material values and had the courage to insist on the right God being the object of worship.

The conversation had been a very successful feature with a full program of the best musical talent of Vancouver. Both functions had been crowded.

Miss E. A. Mercer spoke on the addresses by Dr. Carrothers, B. C. Nicholas and Dr. G. M. Weir. Dr. Carrothers emphasized the general insecurity of the present economic existence. As a result, teachers, who had previously been relieved of an immediate concern in economics and so were free to devote their activities to the consideration of ideals and the education of the young, were now forced to face the results of an ill-ordered system. The change had done them good and the rising generation would benefit. The tragedy of the war had been followed by the greater tragedy of economic catastrophe. The lesson was being slowly learned that human values must be placed above profits of industry.

Mr. Nicholas, of the Victoria Times, spoke of "Education and the Press." The press was the child of education. He traced the development of education in an interesting way, showing how the idea of teaching children to earn a living rather than teaching them to live had developed in this materialistic age. A fuller appreciation of art, literature and the good things of life and more sympathy among members of the human family was necessary.

J. S. Wilson, a member of the provincial executive, told of the business of the executive meetings. He paid a tribute to the very efficient

Sir Herbert Holt Said to be Angling For Control—Strong Epithets Used in Discussion by Deputy Speaker and Progressive Members.

OTTAWA, May 3: (Canadian Press)—Beauharnois cast its shadow over the political stage again yesterday when Opposition members warned the government that Sir Herbert Holt, Montreal utility baron, was angling for control of the vast St. Lawrence River power project. Three members of the Progressive group, E. J. Garland, Robert Gardiner and J. S. Woods, worth, pressed for expropriation of the Beauharnois power and navigation scheme and its development as a public utility. They were joined by Hon. W. D. Euler, Liberal, who suggested that the Dominion acquire control through stock purchase with printed currency. This would have the double effect on requiring the power plant and moderately inflating currency.

Premier R. B. Bennett said that he would make a statement at the proper time.

The Montreal Light, Heat & Power Co. was termed by Armand Lavergne, Deputy Speaker, as "the greatest octopus that ever laid its tentacles on the province of Quebec," by Robert Gardiner as "a set of gangsters" and by Mr. Garland as "a pirating group of unscrupulous promoters and financiers."

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Liberal, said that Quebec would resent discussion of its own private affairs of which he claimed Beauharnois was one.
