CHURCH DECREE ENDS IN TRAGEDY

In Dispute Over an Uncanonical Marriage, Reeve McRae of Cornwall, Shot Man Dead.

(Canadian Press Despatch)
Cornwall, July 8.—The ne-temere degree, which makes an unsanctioned marriage between a Catholic and Protestant not recognisable at law, led to a tragedy here last night when James Shaw a drug clerk of Carp, was shot dead by Reeve McRae.

The wife of Dr. McRae who is a Catholic had left her husband since the publication of the decree, and would not return. Dr. McRae and Shaw went to the home of the wife's parents last night to try and induce her to return. A dispute ensued, and during the dispute, the woman's uncle, Reeve McRae, drew a gun and shot Shaw, who died shortly after. Reeve McRae is now under arrest charged with murder.

LETTER FROM GEORGE LEEK

Prince Rupert's Coronation Representative Visits His Old Home.

Duke of York's School, London., June 20.—I enclose you a post card showing a photograph of Lord Roberts inspecting our company in the grounds of the Duke of York's school. The officer accompanying him was my old colonel in the Grenadier Guards. It revived many old memories to see him again.

Since I last wrote I have had a two days' visit to my old home. I found my aged mother in good health, and very glad to see me after an absence of twenty years. I was glad to look on the old scenes again.

We had a church parade to St. Paul's Cathedral last Sunday. There was a big turnout of people along the line of march to see us. Captain Stork is in London and called to see us yesterday. He is looking well, and in his rounds met two men who were in his old regiment at Brantford.

I get the Prince Rupert News here, and it is always looked over with a great deal of interest by the men of the contingent. Hoping all is well with Prince Rupert,
Yours truly,
GEORGE LEEK

LOTS DOING ON RAIL AND WHARF

Business is Brisk on G. T. P. and with Construction Work and Increase of Traffic General Superintendent Mehan Has Little Leisure.

There is a fine rush of work on the Grand Trunk Pacific line nowadays. General Superintendent Mehan is kept busy looking after a thousand and one operations on foot each one of which is an indication of advance. Rapid progress is being made with the erection of the smaller snow sheds on the first 100 miles, and these will be ready in good time.

Lumber for the stations along the same stretch is arriving and with gangs of men at work from both ends of the first 100 miles. General Superintendent Mehan plans to have the station buildings erected at all permanent sidings during the fall. Very rapid progress is being made with the last little stretch of ballasting on the line to Copper City, and the track adjacent to Prince Rupert will be in fine finished condition by the end of this month.

Passenger traffic is increasingly heavy on the newly opened line, and good traffic at the wharf and for up-river grows so fast that it is necessary to add another 100 feet to the No. 2, Freight Shed. Altogether the indications show that the opening of the 100 mile stretch has had a splendid effect on the prosperity of the waterfront and railway depot.

OH YOU CIVIC SNIFF YACHT!

Pleasant Piece of Property Placed where Perfumed Presence Properly Perturbs Picnic Parties.

Protestations have been addressed to the civic authorities that the new garbage scow, or civic sniff yacht, is making its perfumed presence felt almost musically down there by the railway grade where are situated the boat stages from which picnic parties embark. Sanitary Inspector Macfarlane, he of the indefatigable energy and not inappropriate nick-name (since he does do a lot to "doctor" doubtful aromas about town) has got busy on the job, but is much exercised in mind about what to do with the sniff yacht. The city's own promised piece of waterfront is like the happy land far, far away, and at present can be reached only by aeroplane. "Some thing will have to be done," say these afflicted by the incense breathing presence of the sniff yacht, and that right speedily or it will be all day with us. "Might as well fly the yellow flag and be done with it," remarked the hardy skipper of an approaching tub boat the other day as he held his sea-faring nose. The rumor that the civic sniff yacht is not as seaworthy nor as well caulked as it might be is not supported by the Sanitary Inspector who believes that if the spicy cargo can be kept under hatches, so to speak, by a properly air-tight cover, the nuisance may perhaps be abated.

IS A VICTIM OF ROYAL CUSTOMS

Duchess of Hohenburg, Beautiful but Unofficial Wife of the Heir to the Austrian Throne.

(Colonial Press Despatch)

London, July 7.—The uncertain health of Francis Joseph the aged Emperor of Austria, has raised discussion on the status of the Duchess of Hohenburg, the beautiful and accomplished wife of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne.

THE DUCHESS OF HOHENBURG

Though by his romantic marriage, Ferdinand was able to make the lady a Duchess the customs of nations preclude her from being recognised as Empress when her husband comes to the throne of his fathers. Because she is not of royal blood her marriage to the Archduke ranks in court circles as a morganatic marriage. Of late years she has been received as a Duchess. She can never be acknowledged as an Empress.
