Mr. Stewart (Leeds): In reply to my hon. friend who has from time to time mentioned the construction of a public building at Prince Rupert, and who has by correspondence and otherwise set forth the requirements of that city, I can only say that we have a site, but that the construction of the building would involve an expenditure of approximately $100,000; we have many requests to which unfortunately at this time we cannot accede, and this is simply one of many of the same character. I cannot promise my hon. friend that in view of the condition of the revenue I can hold out much hope of providing for it in the supplementary estimates.
