COMMISSION IS COMING

ment, will hold a public session here on August 16. The city commissioner, Chamber of Commerce, Retail Merchants' Association and other bodies and individuals which have constructive ideas to offer will be welcomed to appear before the commission, it is stated.

The commission has been appointed to function as follows:

Inquire into the powers and duties given to municipalities under the provisions of the various statutes of the Legislature:

How, in what manner and to what extent those statutes have been and are being administered;

The sources of taxation open to municipalities; those which have been taken advantage of; those which, if any, have been exceeded, and those not entered upon, if any;

Financial and other assistance extended to municipalities by the provincial government from time to time;

The relations between the governing bodies, i.e., provincial and municipal, having in view the respective duties and responsibilities of each in regard to administration of affairs in their respective spheres;

Whether, in view of the limited taxation powers vested in the province it is possible or justifiable to extend any greater assistance to municipalities, either by further taxing powers or by grants;

Generally all questions and subjects incidental to or connected with the subject matter of the inquiry.
