STEWART MEETING

was running at the instance of Alice Arm and Anyox supporters. He suggested that the Anyox convention, at which Mr. Asselstine received the Liberal nomination, was not a clean cut fight.

Mr. Fowler dwelt for some time upon his own history as a resident of Northern B.C. since 1907 and stated that he was speaking in support of Mr. Kergin "on behalf of the workers and not on behalf of the capitalistic system." He eulogized the Hon. T. D. Pattullo as a leader and an executive and urged his hearers to support Mr. Pattullo.

He rated the independent candidates as just the Conservative supporters of the present government under another name. He then dealt with each of the four other candidates personally, criticizing them all.

Convention Criticized

At the conclusion of Mr. Fowler's address a member of the audience asked him why he (Mr. Fowler), claiming to be a Liberal, was backing a candidate who was in opposition to the candidate elected by the Liberal nominating convention. Mr. Fowler's reply was that the convention was not clean and above board.

H. B. Campbell, who was a member of the audience, offered to give the audience the facts of the convention. Several members of the audience asked that Mr. Campbell be allowed to do this but the chairman called on the next speaker, J. Fiva, who spoke briefly in Mr. Kergin's support.

Mr. Kergin then took the platform and opened his remarks by thanking Mr. Asselstine for his presence and expressions of personal regard, saying that he, too, valued his friends. He spoke of his thirteen years' service as member for Atlin and dealt at considerable length with the record of the present government during the past five years. He stated that at Anyox there had been a convention, a disagreement and a misunderstanding and that now he would fight Mr. Asselstine during this campaign and that, afterwards, irrespective of the outcome, the fight would be forgotten. At this stage there was further interruption and questioning as to why he claimed to be a Liberal candidate.

Proceeding with his remarks Mr. Kergin stated that, during his terms as member, he had worked hard to develop the riding and to get what roads and trails he could and had endeavored to get 100 cents' worth of value for every dollar expended. He dealt with the Alaska-B. C. highway, and the fact that, while $45,000 had been spent on an aerial survey, no report thereon was available.

Anyox Trouble

Dealing with the recent labor trouble at Anyox, Mr. Kergin stated that he was not approached by the men, nor given any information nor asked for help. He had, however, taken the matter up in the House and some time later, the minister of labor had tabled a report substantiating the claims of the men involved. His copy of the report and his correspondence on this subject had all mysteriously disappeared from his desk in the Parliament Buildings.

In conclusion he said: "If the people see fit to support and re-lect me I will do my best for the district—but if some one else is elected I will still maintain my feeling of friendship for the people of the riding."
