CONSIDER CAREFULLY

Election day is drawing near and it will be necessary for those who are still undecided to make up their minds how they are going to vote. There are but three candidates in the field in Prince Rupert. Two of these represent parties of protest against a condition which everyone has regretted. Many people will vote for them, not because they believe in the doctrines which they preach but because the times are desperate and they wish to do something desperate.

The other candidate is the leader of the Liberal party and is expected to be premier soon. He has represented Prince Rupert for the past sixteen years and has consistently fought the battles of the north. He is the only hope for a constructive administration that will make a serious effort to better the present unsatisfactory condition. He is a man of vision, power and influence and if elected will be in a position to do something. Neither of the other candidates would be able to do anything, no matter how they might wish to implement their views.

Many Prince Rupert people are Conservatives but they have no candidate running on this occasion. It is to be hoped they will all vote. After all, parties are only created to serve the occasion. They mean nothing in themselves. The Conservatives will find it necessary to look over the field, consider well the policies and the men and then vote as they feel they can best serve the interests of British Columbia and particularly of Prince Rupert. After all, this is not a national election. It deals only with provincial problems but many of the policies discussed are national.

DISGUSTED AT RUDDERHAM

Editor, Daily News:—

We are disgusted with the very unsportsmanlike way Rudderham spoke of Patmore, Pullen, Pattullo and the Liberal party at his meeting in Queen Charlotte City. He mentioned Pullen as a joke today. Rudderham has proven himself a poor sport and big joke amongst the islanders.

DECLARES IT WAS BLUNDER

Editor, Daily News:—

George Rudderham, the C. C. F. candidate, held a meeting in Queen Charlotte City last week and during his talk took occasion to flay H. F. Pullen and his paper, the Daily News. This is the greatest blunder Rudderham could have made as the islanders all know that Mr. Pullen has always done his best to help the development of the Queen Charlotte Islands. In our mines he has cooperated with the owners to have only union wages paid.

Olof Hanson in his speech at Queen Charlotte City spoke very highly of Mr. Rudderham. It is a pity friend Rudderham cannot play cricket.

C. C. F. Meeting Draws Capacity House; Rudderham Makes Initial Public Appearance in Campaign

executive of the C. C. F., all of whom were persons of unimpeachable character who had long been prominent in connection with the welfare of the working or agricultural classes. They were: R. J. Skinner of Vancouver, chairman; O. L. Jones, Kelowna, vice-chairman; J. Price, Vancouver, secretary; Mrs. R. P. Steeves, Vancouver; H. E. C. Anderson, North Vancouver; W. W. LeFeaux, Vancouver; A. Turner, Vancouver; J. Ainsworth, Ocean Falls; V. R. Midgeley, Victoria; E. C. Murrell, Creston; E. E. Winch, Burnaby, and R. Wood, Armstrong.

In answer to a question from the audience, the chairman stated that the C. C. F. here had been the first to wire protest to Victoria and Ottawa at men being ordered to the Pender Harbor camp. Charles Chapman, United Front candidate, declared that Mr. Woodsworth two years ago had advocated slave camps. Later in the question period, a statement was made from the platform that the United Front was splitting the working class vote here. Mr. Chapman was cheered when he replied that it was the C. C. F. candidate, instead, who had entered to split the working class vote. Mr. Shearer admitted that there was a provision in the C. C. F. constitution providing for the recall of C. C. F. members if they failed to carry out the party platform. Mr. Shearer admitted that he had been expelled from the C. L. D. L. in Vancouver but explained it had been because he objected at machin control of the organization. The C. C. F. was endorsed by the Socialist Party of Canada under the auspices of which it had been founded. A split over affiliation in Vancouver was the reason why the Socialistic Party of Canada had candidates in the field there against the C. C. F.

Mr. Rudderham

Liberal prognostications notwithstanding, Mr. Rudderham said that he figured he would get a large majority on the Queen Charlotte Islands. He criticized Mr. Pattullo's road system on the Islands which included many roads now overgrown with bush and along which no one lived. A road between Massett and Port Clements was needed.

Mr. Rudderham suggested misreporting in the Daily News in regard to a statement made by Mr. Pattullo with reference to local road buildings but had evidently himself confused two statements made by Mr. Pattullo concerning different times and occasions. The C. C. F. candidate exhibited a Bennett-like flair for alleging newspaper reporting and later also charged the Victoria Colonist and the Vancouver Province with misreporting.

As for the Liberal statement that the C. C. F. had stolen Liberal platform planks, Mr. Rudderham could not see where any party had exclusive rights to good and useful planks. He charged that the Liberal platform contained little on which Mr. Pattullo could be pinned down.

The C. C. F. candidate declared his favor for production for use instead of profit. It might take time but the C. C. F. intended to bring order out of chaos. Unemployment was spreading and Mr. Pattullo had no concrete proposal to offer. Where was he going to get the money for work and wages under the present system? The C. C. F. stood for humanity first and this should be the aim of every government.

Mr. Rudderham paid his respects to "Campaign Echoes" and the Daily News and decried mud-slinging tactics, thereupon asserting that the publisher of the Daily News had not been considered the brightest head in the city council during his two years' service there where often no attention was paid to him, the people being well aware of this. Mr. Rudderham then went on to disseminate his ideas about "throwing baseball and throwing mud."

Mr. Shenton

Mr. Shenton regretted the misunderstanding that had arisen within the ranks of labor all of which should be fighting for the same end in the interests of the human factor—the elevation of human society and the blessing of human beings instead of the exploiting of human lives. The C. C. F. could at least do as much as the others had done and would attempt to do more.

While admitting the Liberal party had been responsible for some paternal legislation, Mr. Shenton charged Mr. Pattullo with voting against measures concerning the employment of women and children, safety in coal mines, state health insurance, extension of Workmen's Compensation benefits, reduction of old age pension qualifications, exemption of homes from tax sale and right of small farmers to appeal to the courts.

The C. C. F. did not intend to reform the capitalistic system which was diseased but to attack it at the roots. The time had come to carry the banner to Victoria and Ottawa. There would be immediate relief for unemployment if the C. C. F. went to Victoria.

Church in Politics

the forefront. One regretted to see people making political capital out of religion but one also deprecated anything contrary to the teaching of Jesus Christ.

"We must realize that any attempt to found democracy and keep democracy established on human nature as it is today is doomed to failure," declared Mr. Hollingworth. "It cannot succeed. Man can only advance towards the real democracy as man in his conquest of evil and his victory over himself. In other words, democracy rests upon a sense of responsibility on the part of every man and woman."

There were those who said that the church was strictly a religious body and in no wise a political body but the pastor could not agree with this theory as he thought of the things for which the Christian Church stood. "Common sense tells me that there can be no political question which is not a religious question."

Discusses Letter

Surely the statement contained in a letter to he Daily News on Saturday to the effect that "so far as the political campaign is concerned, discuss policies most certainly, having of course regard to the truth but as religious beliefs no". That is man's business only" was not correct. A man's religious beliefs did have some bearing on his attitude towards questions of policy. Mr. Hollingworth stated in the form of a question. If they hadn't, they should have. If a man by his words on more than one occasion had shown himself to be opposed to the living Christ, surely Christians could not support him or his theories of government. If a man by his attitude has habitually scoffed at religion surely Christians were not desirous that he should be their representative in legislative halls. The sermon from the Mount was not sufficient. Teaching was not the chief end of the life which Jesus lived among men. He came to deliver the world from sin.

The privilege of exercising the franchise was one for which all should prepare themselves by reflection. Upon reflection surely all must find one way of action which would be more helpful than the other. One was always entitled to know whether a man seeking one's vote was a man of clean and upright life, honorable in all his dealings with his fellows, and fit by qualification and purpose to do well in the great office for which he was a candidate. The pastor believed that he was justified in saying that church members were bound by their obligation as followers of the Lord Jesus Christ to make a very definite point of exercising the franchise and casting their vote. In every town and city the Christian vote must be got out on election day. It would be an unthinkable repudiation of personal responsibility as Christian citizens and a base betrayal of those things for which the church stood if church people should retire from the field and not cast their vote.

PROOFS--Not Mere Claims

"Blood Tests" before and after taking a remedy afford the surest proof of its value in the treatment of weak, run-down, nervous conditions that indicate anaemia. Physicians are able to measure accurately the heamoglobin content of their patients' blood streams and to "count" their red corpuscles.

As the haemoglobin and red corpuscles increase toward normal, the patients definitely experience restored energy. That is because their body cells are then receiving the amount of vitalizing oxygen from the lungs and of nutriment from the digestive organs needed for rebuilding and clearing the system of poisons.

Though Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are credited with 40 years of good results, and their blood-building benefits are attested to in 72 different countries, this remedy need not stop at claims and testimonials—it can point to scientific PROOF of its efficiency.

Recently a reputable physician "blood tested" a group of under-par patients, prescribed Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and, a month later, again tested their blood. The physician's records showed increases in haemoglobin and red corpuscles that were nothing short of marvellous. These records are authentic and copies of them will be given to any person who desires them.

Be sure—and safe. Try this "blood-tested," proven preparation. 50 cents.
