City Fathers Meet Again Tonight To Talk Out Financial Matters

sioner if at all possible but it was difficult to see how the council was able to carry on. Believing that a commissioner would work in the interests of the bondholders rather than the ratepayers, he was rather inclined to favor Ald. Rudderham's suggestion that a special appeal be made to the provincial government rather than fight the application in the courts. He thought the government might by sympathetic and possibly give assistance to lighten the burden of debt.

Mayor Stephens thought the provincial government was well informed through the inspector of municipalities of the city's position. After all, the annual statement told the tale.

Ald. Casey

Ald. Casey admitted that he did not see that the council had much of a chance to carry on. It had become a victim of circumstances. The city's creditors could not be satisfied and its obligations could not be paid. The city council, he believed, had not exercised its resources as fully as it might have in warding off the present situation. It might have followed up a move which had been instituted by the 1932 council whereby the hydro-electric trust fund of $141,000, by application to the provincial government for permission, might have become available to pay pressing obligations this year. The majority of this year's council had felt that this would not be good business—a view with which he (Ald. Casey) did not agree. If this money had been used till the taxes started coming in, the receiver might have been forestalled. In another year the city might be able to collect enough revenue to meet its obligations. However, it was too late now and it appeared that the only thing was to "let her go" by supporting the idea of a commissioner.

Ald. Basso-Bert mentioned the possibility that, once the mill rate was struck, the Canadian National might advance considerable of its taxes in order to help keep things going. By using the hydro-electric funds, he believed it might be possible to carry on. He would make a strong appeal to the provincial government against the appointment of a commissioner and say an emphatic "no" to the demand of the bondholders for their pound of flesh.

Preserve Trust Funds

"As long as I sit in this chair," declared the mayor, "neither you, Ald. Basso-Bert, nor any one else will be permitted to dip into the city's trust funds. As it is, the hydro-electric fund is strictly not intact today which is a matter of great regret to me. By tampering with trust funds is a sure way of getting into trouble."

The city council, the mayor felt, should exercise the greatest care to see that taxes should not be made so high as to be confiscatory of the homes of the people and he could see no way in which the council might now obviate this.

Ald. Casey felt that the council should sit in committee of the whole before finally disposing of the Basso-Bert motion so that all the members of the board might have an intimate knowledge of the financial position.

Mayor Stephens said that members of the council had already had ample opportunity to acquaint themselves with the facts. Nothing had been held back. Even tonight, all rules of debate had been abandoned in order to give opportunity for free and full discussion.

In previous years, Ald. Rudderham stated, there had always been committee of the whole meetings on the estimates and finances generally. He thought it would be a good idea to have a meeting of this kind now.

Ald. Pillsbury also felt that a committee of the whole meeting should be held.

Finally, it was decided to defer the vote on the Basso-Bert resolution, the council resolving itself into committee to once again delve into the consolidated estimates and the general financial position.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Christinsen and daughter of Bella Coola, after a week's visit in the city, sailed on the Venture this morning for Victoria where they will pay a visit. Mr. Christinsen is a well known Bella Coola merchant.

INSPIRATION IN Word, Poem and Song

EASTER . . . a day on which we commemorate the resurrection of Christ, is one of the two most inspiring days in the life of man. . . . The other day is Christmas, when we observe the anniversary of the birth of the Christ child. . . . Easter is always particularly inspiring because all nature seems to be in accord as life bursts forth in every form to teach again the omnipotence of Divine Love. . . . So come to church Sunday . . . your favorite church. . . . Be inspired by the words of truth you will hear in discourse, in poem and in song. . . . Hear again, refresh memory and instill faith within your heart of your oneness with our creator. . . . The power that rolled the stone away is eternal and is still effective today for the sons of God who rely upon Him.

Through the dark days of depression the churches of Prince Rupert have stood forth as beacon lights for the discouraged and the weary. The churches have proved anew how essential they are in the lives of man. . . . The churches of Prince Rupert will feature special Easter programs this Sunday, April 16, and through the means of these printed words cordially invite you to join them in their services. . . . Resolve now to attend church Easter Sunday.

Director of Fish Station Was Speaker

D. B. Finn, director of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station, was the speaker at the regular luncheon of the Rotary Club on Thursday. He dealt interestingly with refrigeration work being carried on at the station, describing a new and lighter type of "freezer" with which it is expected to make frozen shipments of fish by freight.

President G. A. Woodland was in the chair.

Owing to the inclement weather, the exhibition football game which it was planned to play yesterday afternoon between Regiment and Canadian Legion senior teams as a season's opener was called off.

It's SAFE!

Everyone accepts the fact that Aspirin is the swiftest form of relief for headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, periodic pain, and other suffering. If you've tried it, you know. But no one need hesitate to take these tablets because of their speed. They are perfectly safe. They do not depress the heart. They have no ill effect of any kind. The rapid relief they bring is due to the rapidity with which they dissolve.

So, keep these tablets handy, and keep your engagements—free from pain or discomfort. Carry the pocket tin for emergencies; buy the bottle of 100 for economy. The new reduced price has removed the last reason for trying any substitute for Aspirin.
