

ORD STRATHCONA HONORED AT BATH

Canada's "Grand Old Man" is Given the Freedom of the Ancient City—Will Rank on Roll of Honor With Nelson and Wellington

(Canadian Press Despatch) London, July 15.—The Lord Mayor of the ancient city of Bath, conferred the freedom of the city on Lord Strathcona yesterday in the presence of a brilliant assemblage. In moving the resolution, his Lordship referred to Lord Strathcona's great career,

LORD STRATHCONA

said that his name added to the list of distinguished freemen of the city, would rank on the list of those of Wellington and Nelson, and add lustre to the roll. Lord Strathcona, who for fifteen years has filled the position as Canada's High Commissioner at London, and whose retirement was announced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the Dominion Day banquet at the Imperial Institute, occupies a place unique and outstanding in the annals of Canadian history. "A Great Canadian, yea, an Imperial figure, passes from public service with his retirement," says the Toronto Globe, in speaking of his resignation.

Lord Strathcona was 90 years old on August 6th last, he being born at Forres, Scotland, as the son of a saddler, as plain Donald Smith. As a raw youth of 18 he set sail for the West, years before Horace Greely was known. Arriving at Montreal, he at once entered the service of the Hudson Bay Company, and for years was immersed in the solitudes of Labrador. He endured terrible hardships, but finally became superintendent of that company, whose sphere of influence extended for 3,000 miles.

Afterwards, in company of his cousin, now Lord Mount Stephen, he advocated against strong opposition the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He was told that the receipts of the road would not pay for the axle grease of the trains. He had faith in the proposition, however, and has lived to see it the greatest transportation company in the world, carrying passengers from Great Britain to Hong Kong over its own lines.

Lord Strathcona is today the world's oldest multi-millionaire, Canada's greatest philanthropist, optimist and financier, the British House of Lords' second oldest peer, and Great Britain's most prominent railroad builder.

THE COSY CORNER

DEVOTED PRINCIPALLY TO THE INTERESTS OF WOMEN

This is a little section of the paper, which from day to day will be devoted to subjects of special interest to women. Any and all of the ladies of Prince Rupert are invited to contribute to its columns, and to take part in its discussions. Suggestions and criticisms are invited by the editor. The hope is expressed that "The Cosy Corner" will fill a social need.

BLACK AND WHITE COAT SUIT

Despite some of the early predictions that black and white would make way for more glaring colors, the combination is still holding its own in the world of good clothes.

A striking coat suit of white serge, shown above, has a broad band of black satin down front and back of plain narrow skirt. Collar, cuffs, and large buttons are also of satin, and the coat of the short-waisted variety is heavily braided in white soutache in manner illustrated. This is an extremely modish model for shore wear.

done in beads of a contrasting color, as tiny pink beads on a white scarf, or white beads on a pale blue one. Tunics made of very thin silk or chiffon also have this bead work, and they are even used on the washable linen and mull frocks. One lingerie gown shown had the entire front of the blouse closely embroidered, a smaller design on each side of the back, a straight deep band around the edge of the kimono sleeves and an eight-inch band on the skirt. Smart parasols in dainty colors are shown with a border of these white china beads.

The work is all done by hand and any of the designs formerly used for braiding may be chosen. Care must be exercised not to pull or draw the material in working, and also each bead should be sewn on by taking a tiny back stitch. This will prevent the entire design being ruined if the thread breaks or one bead works loose. Beaded bags are being carried, the long cord by which they swing from the arm being made of several strands of strung beads tightly twisted.

To Make Croquettes

Take some fresh mashed potatoes, well seasoned, fry to a golden brown in hot fat, croquette shaped. Remove carefully to a hot platter. With a teaspoon make a deep depression in each one and fill with highly seasoned minced chicken. Strew the grated yolks of hard boiled eggs over the tops.

THE USE OF LEFTOVERS

What the Clever Cook Can Do With Them

Any leftovers may often be used in the making of soups. Where the midday meal is merely luncheon, not a luncheon-dinner, so planned for the children, the leftovers should be utilized as entrees and served here.

In no department of cooking is skill more needed than in making over dishes—hashes, in reality. The basis for most reheated meats, fish and vegetables is a sauce of some kind. Master the making of sauces and one is master of the well-made entree. And, after all, it is not the simplicity of the bill of fare, but how its dishes are cooked and served, that makes of the meal a feast.

The Telephone Humorist

Sir,—The following appears from time to time in the columns of your contemporary:

"The Empire's telephone number is, business office, 64 Black; editorial rooms, 64 Green."

Business office black—editorial rooms green. How fitting are the color emblems. Is there some humorist at work on the telephone staff?

Yours,
P. A. T.
