MOLLISONS PREPARING FOR NEW YORK-BAGDAD FLIGHT

Famous Flying Pair to Ship Their Plane From Gt. Britain for Trip

No Field in Old Country Has Runway Suitable For Take-Off of Heavily Loaded Machine—Is Another "Flying Gas Tank"

LONDON, April 28: (Canadian Press)—Their big plane is so heavy when loaded that no suitable runway in Great Britain has been selected by the Mollisons, Jim and Amy, for their projected New York-Bagdad non-stop flight. The Daily Mail states that the plane will be taken to New York in sections to be reassembled at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, for the long flight.

The plane will have three vast cylindrical tanks and a single seated cockpit with just enough space for Captain Jim and his wife to change over controls. The resting pilot will use a tiny chamber in the machine's tail.

Anglican Young People Score Hit With "Second Storey Peggy"

"Second Storey Peggy," a breezy three-act mystery comedy with a lively plot and a punchy climax, was splendidly presented last night by an excellent cast of members of the Anglican Young People's Association at St. Andrew's Cathedral Hall before a large audience which was completely delighted with the entertainment. The presentation will be repeated this evening and, no doubt, having earned much favorable and appreciative comment last night, will be greeted with another large house.

The story quite differs from the type so often offered in church plays and is nicely interpreted by a carefully selected cast of young players numbering eight in all. The roles are varied in type and all are carried off well by those to whom they have been entrusted. Outstanding performances are given in several cases.

In the character parts, Miss Ann Gilchrist, with the help of well chosen make-up, plays to perfection the role of the dowdy rooming house keeper, her natural histrionic talents serving her in good stead. Miss Elizabeth McLeod, as Daisy, the housemaid, who eventually comes through with the punch of the story, is considered by many to be the outstanding member of the cast. Certainly she is splendid. Her educational abilities are, of course, well known.

Vying for honors as far as excellence of performance is concerned is Miss Eileen Green who, as PEGGY, a demure younger sister, leaves little to be desired in the playing of her important role. Much of the continuity of the story devolves upon her with whom it is in splendid hands. Miss Helen Stamp-Vincent, who helps to provide romantic interest for the story, is very attractive as Helen Henderson, a charming if fickle elder sister.

The Men's Parts

The leading man is happily selected in the person of Johnny Comadina who, after becoming involved in a rather compromising situation, figures prominently in a very happy ending. S. P. Woodside and Bill Elkins play excellently in respective popular conceptions of a brawny policeman or the beat and a bluff, cigar-chewing, derby-hatted detective. Both are fine and their blundering activities keep the audience in rip-

NEW SPIRIT IS NEEDED

Collaboration and Co-operation Are Necessary to Bring Order Out of Social Chaos Today

CONDITIONS ANALYZED

Bishop Bunoz Addresses Rotary Club on Private Property And Social Justice

Urging that co-operation and collaboration were required among all classes in the state in order to bring about a better social condition, Bishop E. M. Bunoz O.M.I., before the Prince Rupert Rotary Club yesterday, gave an interesting exposition of the relation of the state to private ownership, and of the steps that should be taken to remedy the condition which has arisen of recent years under which so many people are out of employment.

Bishop Bunoz dwelt upon the fact that the world was suffering from a deep-seated sickness. Economic doctors were unanimous that an efficient remedy was necessary before the patient expired. If the leaders of the people had kept the natural moral laws such a condition should not exist.

The war was the greatest ever known and the depression from which the world was beginning to recover was castier than any other in history. This was because some people were wanting in their duties. The speaker referred to the encyclical 42 years ago of Pope Louis XIII and that more recently of Pope Pius XI in regard to the reconstruction of the social order in Christendom in which remedies were proposed and urged.

The special mission of the state, the Bishop said, was to provide for the common good of all the people. The old idea was that the duties of the state were only to protect life, limb and property, to keep order and see that the people did not suffer. Further than that, he claimed, that the state had the God-given authority and power to see that the social order was in good condition. Philosophers of the eighteenth century thought that the state had no right to interfere with economic matters, that the laws of nature should be allowed to settle them and that the laws of supply and demand would make necessary adjustments. This philosophy had a sinister influence on modern life. Under it capital was left free to exercise its greed, develop individualism and impose its will on others. It would be all right if justice and charity prevailed but the masses had been exploited and reaction had followed.

Private ownership, the prelate argued, was something with which the state should not interfere. The family existed before the state and had its rights. One of these was the right of private ownership. It was a natural law coming from God. While the state had a right to control some property, that only strengthened the right of the private individual to the same right.

Question of Unemployment

Turning then to the question of unemployment, the Bishop spoke of the millions who were deprived of the right to earn a living by labor. The machine had dispossessed most of them. That was where social justice said that it was the right and duty of the state to intervene. Efforts were already being made through conferences which reported success but no substantial results had followed.

"I would not class them as over-

UNDERSTANDING BETWEEN FRANCE AND STATES ON SUBJECT OF ECONOMICS

Basis of Accord on World Recovery Announced to Have Been Reached at Washington Conversations—Joint Statement is Issued Today

WASHINGTON, April 28: (Canadian Press)—An understanding between France and the United States on problems of world economic recovery was announced today by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Former Premier Edouard Herriot, the French envoy to the conversations preliminary to the world economic conference in London in June. "We have noted with deep satisfaction," said the two statesmen in a joint statement just before the homeward departure of M. Herriot, "that our two governments are looking with like purpose at the main problems of the world and objective of the world economic conference."

Earlier, President Roosevelt and M. Herriot announced that there had been a "frank" discussion of the war debts issue with an expression of hope that these discussions would be continued in Paris and Washington.

London Is Cheered LONDON, April 28: (Canadian Press)—British official circles were cheered yesterday over reports that Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, at the Washington conversations, had persuaded President Roosevelt of the United States to move for a moratorium on Great Britain's war debt instalment due in June.

Farming Operations Over All Western Canada Are Late on Account of Backward Spring

WINNIPEG, April 28:—Farming operations over the whole of Western Canada are not as far advanced as usual, according to the first weekly crop report of the agricultural department, Canadian National Railways. Weather conditions have been unfavorable and spring work is about ten days late. Not much land requires spring ploughing as fall field operations were well advanced before winter set in. Moisture conditions are generally satisfactory and only a few of the districts which have suffered severe drought during the past three years report any desire for more moisture at an early date.

Indications are that wheat acreage may be somewhat reduced due entirely to the lateness of the season and, where any reduction in wheat acreage is apparent, there will be an increase in the acreage sown to coarse grains. The long hard winter has depleted feed supplies and many districts are now praying for the appearance of new grass as livestock have not wintered any too well.

Alberta experienced an Easter snowstorm which was general over most of the province. This was followed by cold backward weather resulting in a postponement of spring work.

Along the Rockyford, Youngstown, Hanna subdivisions considerable work was done before the snow storm but the fall was so heavy that work will not be general until about the first of May.

In Central Alberta and in all territory east of Edmonton there has been practically no land seeded. While this territory will be almost two weeks later than an average year, it is not so badly off as the Peace River districts where the ground is still covered with snow and work on the land will not be general until about the second week in May.

In Southern Manitoba the weather has remained cool and the soil has not even commenced to warm up. Some farmers have started harrowing and a little seeding has been done but very little progress is evident as nightly frosts have made the land too hard for working until almost noon.

In Central Manitoba and also in the Dauphin and Swan River areas spring work is just nicely commencing and moisture conditions of both surface and sub-surface soil are satisfactory. There is distinct evidence of an increase in the number of horses being used on all farms and most districts report sufficient horse power to meet all requirements.

Organization work for the control of grasshoppers is now taking place in many municipalities throughout Manitoba.

In Saskatchewan, along the Lewvan, Lampman, Avonlea, Bengough, Glenavon subdivisions, moisture conditions of the surface and sub-surface soil are satisfactory as the heavy winter snows, followed by spring snowfalls and rain, have given all land a good soaking. Activities are about a week later than usual and, in some of these districts, there will be a slight reduction in the wheat acreage due partly to the lateness of the season and partly to the shortage of seed wheat. In Central Saskatchewan conditions are very similar to those in the southern areas while in the northern territory, except on an exremely small scale, work on the land has not yet commenced. Moisture conditions in all subdivisions of the Prince Albert division are satisfactory. There will be a slight decrease in acreage seeded to wheat but this will be offset by an increase in the oat, barley and forage crop acreage.

CONTROL BY JAPANESE

This is Objective in Connection With Railway—to Fight or Not to Fight?

TOKYO, April 28: (Canadian Press)—Japan, it is authoritatively believed, hopes eventually to secure control of the Chinese Eastern Railway and eliminate the influence of Soviet Russia in Northern Manchuria but it is confidently felt here that it will be unnecessary to fight or pay much for the road.

LONDON, April 28:—The Daily Express reports heavy Japanese troop movements through Manchukuo towards the Soviet border where a serious armed conflict between Japan and Soviet Russia is expected at any time. The Daily Express also asserts that peace would soon be proclaimed between Japan and China which would release thousands of Japanese soldiers for use on the Eastern Manchukuoan frontier.
