"Stonewall" Jackson moved his floating home during the past week from Shawatians Passage to Cow Bay. His general idea is to spend the dark days of winter closer to the bright lights. He will probably go commuting again next spring.

Dr. Neal Carter, chemist from the staff of the Biological Station at Nanaimo, Vancouver Island, arrived in Prince Rupert on the Princess Adelaide yesterday afternoon from the south to assume his new duties as director of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station in succession to D. B. Finn, who has been transferred to take charge of the Halifax station. Mr. Finn will be leaving Prince Rupert in December for Cambridge University, England, where he will spend three or four months engaged in special work before assuming his new duties on the Atlantic Coast. During his term of employment at the Nanaimo Biological Station, Dr. Carter has, through his sincerity and sterling character, won the esteem of all of his associates. He is an excellent chemist and research man and has established a splendid reputation among the scientific men of the coast with whom he has come in contact. He enters upon his wider field of activities well qualified for the position.

The new launch recently purchased in Prince Rupert by Jens Larson of Alice Arm has been named Anna H. and has been placed in service as the mail carrier between Anyox and Alice Arm. She was built recently in Prince Rupert.

Capt. George Fritz and Capt. Dan Larsen, representing the Canadian Halibut Vessel Owners' Association, and George Anderson, secretary of the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union, left Prince Rupert during a public hearing of the International Fisheries Commission on Thursday of next week at which views of the industry are to be heard in connection with proposed new conservation regulations. In spite of the rather turbulent weather conditions, a number of extended bird hunting trips to more remote points down the coast have been undertaken by local nimrods of late but no very marked success has attended any of their efforts. Some of the parties have had a rather rough time of it from the weather standpoint but everyone seems to have come through well and, if they did not get much game, they at least gained some experience. With winter coming to the north, larger numbers of geese and ducks are now to be seen winging their way southwards. The exceptionally wet weather has somewhat dampened the spirits of the deer hunters and there have not been so many huntsmen in the woods of late. It has certainly been rather unpleasant for that sort of thing.

The Gammon & Watt seineboat Bertha G. left on Thursday morning for a hunting trip of ten days'

GRIT DANCE FINE EVENT

Liberal Party at Queen Charlotte Attracts Guests From All Island Points

QUEEN CHARLOTTE CITY, Nov. 18.—One of the most enjoyable and successful affairs ever held on the Queen Charlotte Islands, rivaling the event which took place two years ago when the Lieutenant Governor of British Columbia was a visitor here, was the Liberal dance held last Saturday night in Miller's Hall.
