

FISHERIES INSPECTOR PAYS VISIT TO RUPERT

Chief Inspector Cunningham Pays First Official Visit on the Little Cruiser Restless—Had a Busy Day's Work Today

Chief Inspector Cunningham of the Fisheries Department, arrived in the city yesterday on board the protection cruiser Restless on a tour of the canneries. "Our special duties are to do everything possible," says Inspector Cunningham, "to preserve the fisheries of the Pacific Coast, and especially the salmon fisheries of the northern coast of the province, as it is recognised that great development of the northern fisheries is possible. These fisheries are today, and will continue to be if properly conserved, one of the greatest assets in the keeping of the Dominion. To this end efforts are being made to remove obstructions to the ascent of the fish to their breeding grounds. Both natural and artificial obstructions will be removed, and at the moment favorable considerations are being given to the improving of the ascent for the fish into Meziadene Lake. This while a difficult operation will open up a large swapping areas for the Naas River fish.

eries in this part of the province during the past season were very successful, and operations for the coming season are now under way. Inspector Cunningham found that this district was generally in good shape from the protection standpoint. There were few if any violations of the regulations, and Inspector Williams who has been in charge had affairs well in hand.

Mr. Cunningham returns direct to the Fraser River in the fisheries protection cruiser Restless in charge of Captain Moore, starting without delay as by the time he reaches there the sockeye run on the Fraser River will be at its height.

Familiar With B. C.
Inspector Cunningham is no stranger to British Columbia though he is the first Chief Inspector of Fisheries appointed. During the past ten or twelve years he has made several lengthy visits of inspection for the Department of Fisheries with which he has been associated for twenty-eight years. He is thus familiar with the fisheries of the province, as well as with the policy of the

THIRTEEN SALMON FISHERS DIED WITHIN ONE WEEK

Alarming Death-Rate at One Alaska Canning Station—The Run of Salmon is Very Late This Year Up North, and the Catch Will be Light

Seward, Alaska, July 18.—The steamship Dora, from Nushagak and way ports, brings news that thirteen deaths occurred from various causes in one week of June on Chignik Bay, the great salmon-packing centre on the Alaska coast. Gus Norton, boss fisherman of the Columbia River Packers' Association, was killed at Chignik on June 14 by taking carbolic acid by mistake.

Owing to the late arrival of red salmon the pack will be greatly reduced. No red salmon were running at Bristol Bay, Chignik or Carluk when the Dora passed, and only king salmon were being caught. The reds appeared at Cook Inlet several days ago.

At Bristol Bay it was said that the placer ground at Good News Bay was paying more than $20 a day per man.

Department at Ottawa. During Inspector Cunningham's experience with the Fisheries Department, he has been concerned with the settlement of many very important questions connected with the fisheries of the whole Dominion, and the Government hopes and expects that the policy pursued in creating this new office will remove many objections in connection with the administration of the fisheries in this province, and that all concerned will continue to give Inspector Cunningham every support and assistance.

Ins. Williams Commended
In his inspection tour of District Number Two, the northern coasts and Prince Rupert district, the Chief Inspector was accompanied by Inspector Williams of this district "who owing to his thorough knowledge of the district rendered invaluable assistance," remarked Chief Inspector Cunningham this morning. The ladies are all promising to look especially summery and sweet for the occasion and it is a foregone conclusion that a very bright and pleasant company will attend. Everybody interested is cordially invited to be there. The gentlemen are especially invited to drop in and take tea.
