Meet Ae-Ma-Na, "Great Chief" of a Fighting Tribe

The visit of the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough to Southern Alberta brought a number of interesting experiences. First, they were shown through the great, million-dollar Mormon temple, a rare privilege granted only to non-communicants by the head of the church, President J. Grant of Salt Lake City—and second, His Excellency was made a chief of the Blood tribe of Indians, the famous fighting tribe of the once-powerful Blackfoot Confederacy. The picture shows His Excellency and Lady Bessborough with High Chief Shot-Both-Sides standing between them. The photo was taken following the traditional and colorful ceremonies at St. Paul's Indian residential school (Anglican) the principal of which, Rev. Canon Middleton, stands just behind Chief Shot-Both-Sides. His Excellency's tribal name is Ae-Ma-Na, meaning "The Great Chief." The head-dress is a gorgeous creation made by the best artists of the tribe.

Terrace Stirred By Arrival Of Family of Hikers From Aiyansh; Seven Children With Parents

There was a sudden increase in the population of Terrace last week with the arrival overland of the Fraser family of father, mother and seven children who had been forced to leave their ranch home near Aiyansh owing to lack of a market for their products and start life afresh in a new community. There were thirteen in the party when they left Aiyansh and, when noting this unlucky number, fear was expressed that one member would fail to reach the destination. In addition to the man and wife and family there were two goats, a dog and a horse. The horse succumbed on the route but all the rest made the seventy mile hike with safety, the goats providing milk for the younger members of the family, the youngest of which was 14 months old and the oldest nine years. On the rough trail over the mountains the man carried a pack weighing one hundred pounds and the woman forty pounds and the baby, except when the going was very bad and they relayed the packs, leaving the children with kindly telegraph operators until they returned. Nine days was occupied in the trek and, when they finally arrived at Cobb's Ranch, they were out of food. The kindly farmer took them in his wagon four miles to the mining camp at Roswood where the miners chipped in from their pokes of gold and provided the wherewithal for them to carry on. One of the incidents of the trip was the finding of a dugout canoe at Lava Lake, which they utilized to carry them across that sheet of water. Along the shore of Sand Lake they hiked and they crossed Cedar River on a log jam. Once they reached Roswood they were taken down Kitsumkalum Lake in a launch and picked up in a car at the southern end and taken to Terrace where they are all comfortably housed. Some of the nights were passed in the open when lying close together they slept soundly undaunted by the fear of wolves or other creatures of the wild. In the cabins it was curious to see eight out of the nine stretched out on the floor, a place being found for the baby mostly on a chair or seat. Several of the pioneer children were so small that they had to be carried part of the way. Mr. Fraser expects to find work at the Columario mine at Usk for which place he is headed.

KRASSIN ARRIVES

Giant Russian Ice Breaker at Comox For Coal Enroute From Archangel to Bering Sea

VICTORIA, May 7: (CP)—The Russian ice breaker, Krassin, already having covered ten thousand miles from Archangel enroute to Bering Straits, arrived here at the end of the week and proceeded to Comox to load 2400 tons of bunker coal. She will likely leave for the north today and plans to pick up some of the survivors of the steamer Chelluskin and convey them to Russia via the northeast passage across the north of Asia and Europe. The survivors of the Chelluskin had been marooned on ice floes for a couple of months following the sinking of their ship, having been recently rescued by airplanes which landed some of them at Nome and some in Siberia.

MEETING OF BOARD Private Companies Get Back Contracts

Library Directors in Session—Consider Moving—Are Buying New Books

The local library board, at its last regular monthly meeting, discussed plans for moving the library from its present quarters at the corner of Third Avenue and Fifth Street to the building in the middle of the old Court House square on Second Avenue which was formerly occupied by the government agent's office. It was decided to make formal application to the government agent for the use of the building which, before it could house the library, would have to be re-roofed and renovated generally in addition to having the furnace repaired. Following the meeting, members of the board inspected the building for the renovation of which estimates are now being secured. If the cost of this work is not excessive, it is probable the library will be moved. The move to the larger building would permit of accommodation for a reference library as well as for a reading room. S. J. Jabour reported to the board that it was expected some $625 or $650 would be available for the purchase of new books this year as a result of the recent campaign. On the strength of this fund, the purchase of a number of new books has already been authorized. Those present at the meeting, the business of which was otherwise largely of a routine nature, were Frank Dibb, president of the board, Thomas B. Black, secretary Mrs. G. H. Arnold, R. E. Moore and R. L. McLennan, directors, and Miss Alice Cruikshank, librarian.
