Well Known Fishing Vessel Gertrude Smashed To Pieces After Swamping In Storm Near Oona River

Narrow Escape

Ole Welle, Owner and Skipper, and Companion Had Close Call Last Thursday While Bound For Here

Reporting the loss of his 28-foot trolling and halibut boat Gertrude in a storm while bound from Oona River to Prince Rupert with a load of lumber on Thursday morning of last week. Ole Welle, well known Prince Rupert fisherman, has returned to the city from Porcher Island. When half a mile from Oona River while heading for the sheltered Kelp passage, the Gertrude was swamped in the tempestuous sea which had been lashed to fury by a fierce southeast gale. The gasboat rapidly filled and Welle and his companion had to jump for their lives, the former managing to make his getaway in the one-man skiff and the latter clinging to floating lumber and paddling his way to shore where he swooned and lay on the beach for an hour and a-half utterly exhausted. The Gertrude, which was equipped with an 8 h.p. two-cylinder Easthope gas engine and which was uninsured, was found later on the beach smashed to pieces.

The load of lumber had been taken from the mill of Hadland & Lincoln Memorial Sons at Oo a River and was to have been delivered to Prince Rupert. LECTURES TO FISHERMEN ON PRESER-VATION OF FRESH FISH AT SEA

A series of two lectures on advances in the preservation of fresh fish at sea will be presented by the Fisheries Experimental Station (Pacific). The first of these lectures will be given in the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union Hall at 8 p.m. Friday, February 16th, and will be illustrated with slides showing how discoloration is caused. The second lecture will follow on Wednesday the 21st, and will include a discussion of means of overcoming this discolouration by demonstration of a model of a modified type of fish hold.
