POLICY REGARDING ROADS

The Vancouver Province, by inference, editorially belabors the Pattullo government for using part of it in each constituency instead of spending the million dollars it got from the Dominion on hard surfacing the highways in the south. If that policy had been carried out it would have meant that Prince Rupert would have had no highway work this year but the money would have been spent in the south, "frittered away" to enable the people of the B. C. metropolis to ride in greater comfort in their limousines.

It is the advocacy of a policy such as that which justifies the remarks of Clive Planta, member for the Peace River, when he speaks of Vancouver as "an octopus."

It seems likely that Prince Rupert will have to organize a pilgrimage to Vancouver in the near future to meet its board of trade, its newspapermen and other citizens and talk to them plainly, just as Mr. Planta has been doing. They must be taught that, if they are going to consider themselves the whole of British Columbia, it is time the northern section separates itself from the south and lets them spend their own money at home but, as for our money, we will spend it in the north where it is needed and where it belongs.

The southern part of British Columbia comes north for its spruce for its mills. The southern section comes to the Skeena River for its salmon, bringing along its own supplies and taking back the canned goods to be shipped from the port of Vancouver. The south comes to the Premier mine for its dividends and its business. It sends its ships to supply the whole of the coast and the interior with its needs and then it complains because the money borrowed for the development of the whole province was not expended in the south on hard surfacing for the limousines of the rich Vancouverites who are fattening on the people of the north.

We do not believe in setting one part of Canada against another. We did not altogether agree with Mr. Planta when he spoke of Vancouver as the octopus, but such editorial articles as those appearing in the two Vancouver evening newspapers from time to time wholly justify the remarks of the Peace River member.

Householders

Would you think of importing spruce from Vancouver Island or Alberta when nature gave your district the finest grade spruce grown? Decidedly no! Then why import one pound of coal when nature gave the Bulkley Valley the highest grade coal available in the west? Familiarize yourself with and insist on—

LOCAL NEWS

George Arnott, who has been a visitor in the city for the past couple of weeks, will sail by the Prince George tonight on his return to Vancouver.

Work of William Patmore and Tom Scully of Prince Rupert on their mining property near Doreen in the interior was referred to in the news broadcast of the Vancouver Province last night.

Canon S. H. Gould of Toronto, general secretary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, was an interesting speaker today at the regular weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Rotary Club in the Commodore Cafe today. There was a good attendance of members with a few guests. C. V. Evitt presided in the absence of President J. J. Little.

WHIFFLETS From the Waterfront

The United States coastguard cutter Alert, Capt. Hanson, arrived in port at 7:30 last evening from Ketchikan and sailed at 8 o'clock this morning on her return north. The vessel came down to pick up Corp. Robert Gibson of the provincial police here who is to testify in a case at Ketchikan involving the alleged theft of a gasboat.

Bringing over Thomas A. Kelley, head of the Kelley Logging Co., who has been paying one of his periodical visits to his logging operations at Athl Inlet, the company service boat Norah Jane arrived in port last evening from the Queen Charlotte Islands. Mr. Kelley will sail by the steamer Prince George tonight on his return to Vancouver. Capt. W. L. Dass, regular skipper of the Norah Jane, will also go south tonight for an extended vacation. At Vancouver he will be joined by Mrs. Dass and they will tour Europe, spending the winter on the Mediterranean. Capt. Norman Davis will be skipper of the Norah Jane during Capt. Dass' absence.

Capt. William Gleeson and other officers and members of the crew of the steamer Prince Charles, which returned here at the first of the week following a special voyage to Vancouver with a cargo of canned salmon from Butedale and the Queen Charlotte Islands, will sail on the Prince George this evening for their homes in Vancouver. The Prince Charles is being withdrawn from service and tied up for the winter at the local dry dock. Queen Charlotte Island fishermen are reported to be indignant at the action of the government in putting on the new 7c tax on fuel oil. A general meeting is to be held shortly, it is reported, to discuss this as well as other matters of interest to the fishermen of the Islands.
