British Challenger Takes To Water For First Time

America's Cup Defender

The prospective America's Cup defender "Rainbow," photographed from a motorboat as she made fair speed before a brisk wind in Narragansett Bay, after having been placed under sail for the first time. Rainbow was skippered by Harold Vanderbilt; the yachtsman who heads the syndicate that constructed the craft for possible competition against the British-built "Endeavour".

Shades of Sir Thomas Lipton! Here is a sight that would have gladdened the heart of the famous Irish skipper, perennial challenger for the America's Cup. For here is the new challenger, "Endeavour", as she took to water under full sail for the first time. T. O. M. Sopwith is the new owner and skipper and he is seen (upper left) on the deck of the challenger. His wife, also an ardent sailor, is seen at the wheel. Upper right, Endeavour in full sail seen from the air. Below, hoisting the sail for the first time on England's hope. The races for the America's Cup will be held late this summer. Pictures taken on Solent River.
