MOVING PICTURE EXPERT TAKING SCENES OF RUPERT

Mr. W. H. Harbeck Arrived on Prince Rupert Today to Take Scenes of the Harbor and City—Will Go Up the Skeena and Portland Canal

Although the weather was good and fairly bright this morning it was hardly bright enough for Mr. W. H. Harbeck, the well known moving picture artist, to take views of the harbor and city as he came in on the S.S. Prince Rupert as she steamed into this port.

On the way up from Vancouver he took a picture of the Prince Rupert and Prince George passing each other in Seymour Narrows. To do this he was landed at a convenient point on the shore and then the boats steamed full steam ahead for some distance. Then the Prince Rupert called back and picked Mr. Harbeck up.

At noon today the weather was bright enough to enable him to take a film of the fire drill on the Prince Rupert. He will likely go up to Stewart in the morning and from there will go into Alaska taking pictures along the route as often as the weather permits. Later he may return to take views of this scenery up the G. T. P. line as far as Copper River.

Mr. Harbeck is official moving picture artist to the Canadian Pacific railroad and is now under contract to take some of the best scenery along the G. T. P. steamship and railroad routes. He confesses that the scenery along the coast and in the surrounding country of Prince Rupert is the finest he has seen.

The pictures when developed will be seen all over the world.
