So the Israelites were said to be 430 years in Egypt but really they were only 215 years there.

Moses Cotsworth is one of the foremost mathematicians of the world. He has advocated a calendar giving 13 months of 28 days which would place Sunday on the same day each month and one day in each year to be a holiday without a date. His plan has been approved by the League of Nations and by a good many other authorities. Possibly it may some day become a universal custom.
