IS FASCISM THE ANSWER?

A book has come to the editorial desk recently for review. It is by S. Alfred Jones K.C., LL.B. and is entitled "Is Fascism the Answer?" The writer claims to have made a close study of Fascism in Italy and as a result he is certainly favorable to it.

The writer explains that the Fascist plan does not provide for a dictator but that it is a democracy of the brains of the nation. He describes it as a mass movement with the state supreme while at the same time respecting the life and work and property of the individual.

After describing the work of the Fascist government in detail and in a most illuminating manner and giving a very interesting sketch of the life and work of Mussolini, the writer compares the system with the New Deal of President Roosevelt. In this section of the book he says:

"The Roosevelt Revolution, as it has been termed, was a distinct revolt against the doctrine of 'Let well enough alone,' under which the nation had been drifting far too long. The old rule of government non-interference had long since been outlived. During good times it was difficult to get support for a policy of change and when the evil days came the tendency was to wait for the turn of the tide. The President's action seized the popular mind at a time when it was vitally necessary for the very life of the nation to capture the people's thoughts. The personal popularity of the President played no small part in securing the almost unanimous acclaim with which his proposals were received. One writer has in six words well expressed the underlying basic principles upon which the N. R. A. is founded, and the great mass of the people have realized that selfishness must be forgotten in the duty of every loyal citizen to sincerely subscribe to those words namely, 'The public interest must be supreme.' Capital must give as well as take, labor must be reasonable and the consumer must expect to make sacrifices for the country's welfare."

WHIFFLETS

From the Waterfront

One of the largest bird hunting parties to go out of Prince Rupert during the season now about to close was that which made a trip at the end of the week to Old Hartley Bay, Kildala Arm and Kitimaat aboard the Salvage Princess, leaving here Friday afternoon and returning yesterday morning. There were thirteen in all in the party and they brought home a bag of nine geese and some fifty ducks. Kildala Arm was found to be so blocked up with ice that nothing could be done in the way of hunting there. There was also much ice at Kitimaat with streams swollen on account of high water. Members of the party were Capt. W. P. Armour, J. H. Pillsbury, W. O. Fulton, J. A. Lindsay, A. R. Nichols, F. A. MacCallum, W. M. Blackstock, G. A. Bryant, J. A. Hinton, Johnny McKay and C. V. Eviit.

HERRING BEGINNING TO SHOW AT PEARL HARBOR, REPORTED

Signs of herring are beginning to show at Pearl Harbor, according to word reaching the city. A few straggling fish are in sight and, should the wind go westerly and the weather become fine, it is believed that considerable schools might start coming in. The Gammon & Watt sloopboat Zenardi is now out prospecting. A few Port Simpson hand trollers are reported to be getting the odd spring salmon at Pearl Harbor.

A. went to the water tank at the halfway mark with a 10-point lead, score being 15-25. FATHER IS CONFIDENT

Adolph Bremer Hopeful That His Son Will be Returned Safely By Kidnappers

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 30.—Adolph Bremer, elderly brewing magnate, states that he is still clinging to the hope that his 38-year old son, Edward G. Bremer, is safe and that he will be returned alive and well following his kidnapping on January 17. Another appeal was broadcast to the abductors yesterday. The elder Bremer stated that, of twenty-five communications which had been received in regard to the payment of ransom, only one was believed to be genuine. It bore his son's signature and in it a demand was made for $200,000. The money has been ready for some days for delivery.

Contrary to her father-in-law, the kidnapped man's wife has openly given up hope of ever seeing her husband alive again. Police officials are also inclined to the belief that Bremer has been killed, it was intimated yesterday.
