LEGION BILLIARD TEAM

Sports Editor, Daily News:—

In connection with the report of the games played in the billiard league Tuesday night and the statement that the Canadian Legion might yet enter a team I would be glad if you will allow me some space so as to prevent any wrong impression being drawn from the report. Our representative attended the organization meeting called for the formation of the league. A re-organization meeting was later called but our representative was not notified of such a meeting and it was only through reading the report in the local papers the following day that we knew of the meeting. To say we were surprised at not being included in the schedule is to put it mildly, and I have communicated with the president of the Billiard League to that effect. How could we enter a team when we were not given the opportunity?

The Canadian Legion is always a supporter of good, clean, wholesome competition in any and every line of sport.

J. S. WILSON, Secretary-Treasurer.

GREENVILLE CELEBRATES

Church Army Captains Here From Naas River After Having Busy Time For Five Weeks

Wedding Held

Varied Activities in Community During Gala Occasion—Visitors Later at Kincolith

GREENVILLE, November 29:—After waiting almost three hours in a misty drizzle, with a cold wind blowing down river, the community of Greenville had the pleasure of seeing the two Church Army evangelists arrive from Aiyansh, accompanied by two speedboats which had previously been despatched upriver as an escort.

Captains Hutchison and Hanney, who had come from England under the auspices of the Church Army to hold services in each village wherein a branch of this movement exists, were given a rousing welcome. They were met at the wharf by the local Church Army officers and were then marched through the Triumphal Arch to the strains of "De Molay," played with much feeling by the Greenville Concert Band, under the able leadership of its well-known bandmaster, Fred McKay. After a brief tour of inspection of the village had been made, the band escorted the visitors to the rectory where they were cordially welcomed by Rev. W. S. Cooper.

After a brief rest, everybody repaired to the Community Hall where the St. Andrew's Women's Guild and Women's Auxiliary had prepared a delicious feast in honor of the guests. An illuminated address, beautifully painted by Pater-son McKay, was read by H. Heman McKay and presented to Captain Hutchison on behalf of the Lakalzap Council.

During the course of the evening, the band, under the baton of Fred McKay, entertained with several well known and difficult compositions. Following the feast, Chief Arthur Calder, in a few words, extended a welcome to the visiting Church Army captains, Captains Hutchison and Hanney responding briefly. The pleasant evening was brought to a close with a few words and benediction by Rev. Cooper.

Gala Wedding

Following was another gala day in Greenville, being marked by the wedding of Chief Leonard Douglas of Greenville and Mrs. Louisa Wright of Aiyansh. At 2:45 p.m. the local band escorted first the bridegroom and then the bride and her attendants to the church where Rev. W. S. Cooper united them in marriage.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Isaac Wright as matron of honor, and Mrs. Charles Davis and Mrs. Albert Stevens. The bride was dressed in a becoming gown of Bermuda blue canton crepe with shoulder capes and yoke of matching lace. She wore a corsage and coronet of orange blossoms. All her attendants were in blue silk and lace frocks, with white bandeaus.

After having their photograph taken, the bridal party was escorted by the band to the hall where an elaborate wedding feast had been prepared for nearly two hundred guests. At the bridal table were the happy newlyweds, their attendants, Rev. W. Cooper, Captains Hutchison and Hanney, and Mr. and Mrs. Hayhurst and daughter. Once again the band entertained, this time selecting Lohengrin's "Wedding March," "De Molay," "Poet and Peasant" and "Chilcolthian" as their offerings. Speeches were they made by the bride, the matron of honor, Rev. W. S. Cooper, Chief Peter Calder and the bridegroom.

A few suitable words of regret over the sad loss of one of Greenville's bandmen, Joseph Rush, who was recently drowned at sea, were then expressed by his bereaved father and several of his friends. The bandmen expressed their sorrow by a fine execution of Chopin's "Funeral March." Rev. W. S. Cooper brought the evening to a close.

Farewell Feast

The entire village assembled at the hall for a farewell feast, given by the choir of Greenville. The opening speech was made by Johnson Russ, who, as previously, was master of ceremonies, followed by a few remarks by Chief William Stevens, president of the Concert Band.

A fine concert was given by the members of the band and choir. AF-

Sea Serpent Snaps Shots

Rufus Dudoward, well known Port Simpson native fisherman, is another to report having seen in life a monster of the sea such as may have been Prince Rupert's serpent. It was last year off Rose Spit, Graham Island, that Mr. Dudoward reports having sighted such a creature rear its huge head and long neck out of the water as it swam along in a writhing fashion. He and his crew were able to get a full view of the creature at fairly close range.

ter the feast the band obliged with "O Canada," "De Molay," a remarkable rendition of selections from Gounod's "Faust," and "Canton March." The president of St. Andrew's Choir, Lazarus Moody, then spoke a few words, after which the entire gathering stood to sing "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." The choir then sang Part III of Handel's "Messiah," beginning with a fine rendering of the "Hallelujah Chorus," followed by the solo "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," by Mrs. Johnson Russ. The choir then sang "Since By Man Came Death," after which Mrs. Joshua McKay sang "If God be For Us Who Can be Against Us?" A duet, "Oh Death, Where is Thy Sting?" sung by Mrs. Walter Calder and Horace Angus, followed. The choir concluded with "Worthy is the Lamb," and "The Amen." An enjoyable evening closed with the "National Anthem."

During their mission here the Church Army evangelists held services every afternoon and evening with a special children's service daily at 4 p.m. Prayer, praise and testimony formed a major portion of the service, the choir and band at intervals assisting with selections.

During the week solos were sung by Captain Hanney, Mrs. Chris. Calder and Fred McKay; a duet by Miss Beatrice McKay and Miss Eliza Martin; and a quartet by Mrs. Johnson Russ, Mrs. Walter Calder, Horace Angus and Alex Angus. All services were well attended and the music much enjoyed. The visiting captains left for Kincolith, the next stop in their itinerary, whence they proceeded to Anyox and Stewart enroute to Prince Rupert and Kitkatla.
