BASEBALL YESTERDAY

The local baseballers were out in full force yesterday in preparation for the trip to Smithers this coming week-end when they will tangle with the cream of the Bulkley Valley. It was the first time this season that a game had been played here and, considering the lack of practice, the boys looked as though! they might still show the interior athletes a thing or two.

How the trend toward streamlining is enveloping transportation is demonstrated in this layout, showing the old types of aeroplane, automobile and train, as compared to the new streamlined modes of travel in the air, on the highway and by rail.

STATE DIRECTION

Editor, Daily News:-

Yes, Mr. Editor, there must be a change. All common sense people agree with the conclusion of your editorial regarding the North Vancouver election, but how is it to be?

The crisis is nothing more or less than the finish of the old mode of capitalism with its liberal economy. The social problem perplexes the politicians, absorbs and obscures politics. What is the way out? Socialism? No! It is in fragments the world over. What then?

Briefly and clearly it is: Liberal economy, versus directed economy

1. The main problem of the modern state today, is distribution of wealth. It is obvious that in order to do so, the state must intervene in privae economy, discipline it. and dominate as rationally as possible the forces of the market, for the economic forces left to themselves can solve no problem and will only increase chaos.

2. The modern state must conscienciously, become the centre of the economic reality and, with laws and regulations, establish the mobile equilibrium of prices, products and consumption so as to utilize the immense energies possessed by humanity and the natural forces and exercise them in the interests of the national and world collectively.

3. The professional and trade categories constitute the reality of economic life. They, undisputably, form the rational management of industry, therefore, the modern Father Boniface, Roman Catho- state must organize them to bemust cease to be a mere instrument of exploitation and become the subject of the whole economic and social structure.

Mr. Editor, Russia shifted the means of life from private hands to not Communism-but a capsized form of Socialism, namely, state capitalism, but is her social problem solved? Far from it! Have the advocates of the C. C. F. reflected on that experience in socialization
