READY FOR UNION

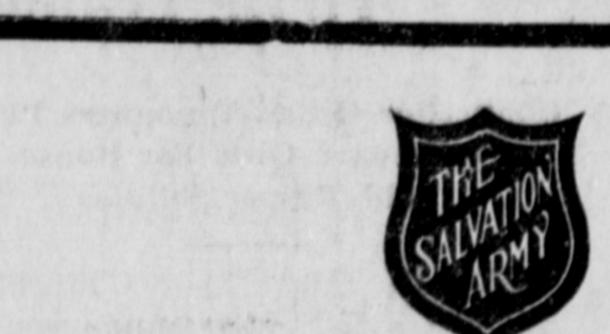

It is suggested that the proposal of an adjustment of the present over-capitalization of the Canadian National Railways is a step leading up to the amalgamation of the two Baseball Standings big Canadian systems. No amalgamation could possibly take place on the present basis and the National system is loaded with old debts which would have to be wiped out. Once the C. N. R. is relieved of the burden of about half a billion dollars it is claimed that no obstacle would then be in the way of the unification of the railways under one active head except the will of the people and that may change at any time.

Sir Henry Thornton when in charge of the National Railways, advocated a change in the nominal capitalization because, if he showed a profit, the percentage on so large a capitalization was very small.

VISITING ARTISTS

Prince Rupert people have had the opportunity recently of hearing two splendid artists, one a pianist and the other a vocalist. Their visit has been an inspiration to the young musicians of the city, some of whom aspire to great things. To hear and see the performers is quite different from listening to them over the radio although the latter is a good substitute.

SPORT CHAT

Washington Senators continued their upward swing in the American League Monday by defeating the Chicago White Sox to move into third place ahead of the Boston Red Sox who were losing a close decision to the Detroit Tigers at Boston. The St. Louis Cardinals won over the Boston Braves at Sportsman's Field to displace the Bostonians from fourth place in the National League.

New York continued supreme in both circuits, the Giants retaining a half game margin in the National League by winning over the Reds by the odd run at Cincinnati while the Chicago Cubs kept pace in second place by blanking the Phillies at Wrigley Field. In the American League, the Yankees' lead was increased to two and a half games as a result of their heavy victory over St. Louis Browns at Yankee Stadium while the Cleveland Indians were losing to the Philadelphia Athletics at Shibe Park.
