

SEATTLE WRITER SEES RUPERT

Mr. John R. Dreher of Seattle Times Staff Pays Visit Here with His Wife and will Describe City.

Today Mr. John H. Dreher of the Seattle Times, touring this part of Northern British Columbia with his wife on a holiday and descriptive writing trip visited Prince Rupert.

Mr. Dreher has that ideal newspaper assignment "a roving commission" and his story of Prince Rupert will be a series of bright impressions. He very greatly enjoyed the superb sail up the Sound in the Prince George, and Captain Saunders was able to give him ideal weather conditions.

While talking to the Daily News on his arrival Mr. Dreher was loading up his kodak to take as he said, "Something out of the usual" in photographs. He was much interested in one city grading work—particularly in the muskeg and the men who mess themselves up in it for $3 a day.

"How in the world did they ever think of making a city here?" he asked with a glance at our hummocks.

"How ever did you make such a splendid job of your city building?" is his question after a walk round the town.

Mr. Dreher's trip takes him next to Stewart.

FIRE CHIEF AND WATER CHARGES

McInnis had seen the light department men at work and warned them that the job would obstruct the road for the fire department. The work went on however, and the obstruction was encountered at a most critical moment.

Lesson from Guelph
Under the heading "Things a Fire Chief Ought to Know" the Guelph Herald of 28th ult., says:

"Instructions have been issued by the fire, light and markets committee to the city engineer and other departments who tear up the streets, that notice must be sent to the Fire Chief whenever a street is blocked from traffic."
Alderman Clayton's fire department recommendations might very well include provision of a similar nature.

George an Hour Early
By the Prince George this morning there arrived a crowd of first and second class passengers. The George came in one hour ahead of schedule and brought 180 tons of freight and mail.

CUPID'S HANDICAP

Tuneful Musical Play at the Empress Theatre Pleased Many.

Though nearing the end of their engagement, the Cleveland Comedy Company is still drawing good houses and putting on good shows. Last night they put on a tuneful musical comedy called "Cupid's Handicap." It gave the company a chance to appear as a bunch of merry co-eds and college athletes and made us all wish we had gone to college with them, instead of wasting our time in serious pursuits.

Special interest attached to the comedy because it was written and composed by Harry B. Cleveland and his clever little wife Drena Mack. There are lots of good songs, and plenty of movement in it. One of the pretties numbers is Elton Ralston's song with quartet chorus in the first act, "Dream Girl of My Dreams." The chorus too made quite a hit last night.

BUILDING PERMITS

Sum Total for Past Week is Well Over Nine Thousand Dollars.

Two considerable items appear in the list of building permits for the week just ended. These are residential buildings for Mr. E. Coates on First street and Third avenue to cost $3000, and store buildings for Mr. R. C. Hyde on Third avenue and Seventh street to cost $4000. A third item just into the three figure standard is a boarding house for Danito Cambro on Ninth avenue, to cost $1000. Other permits issued are as follows: James Hampton, residence on Seventh avenue, cost $300.

Mrs. L. Shrubbsall, residence 3rd avenue, cost $400.

John Storings, out-buildings on Eighth avenue, cost $75.

George Sutherland, residence on McBride street, cost $350.

Mike Cruch, residence, Seventh avenue, cost $200.

Weather Along Coast

Cloudy weather with here and there dense fog banks though smooth sea prevails along the coast according to wireless reports. The Prince Rupert was passing Harold Bay southbound at 11 p.m. last night.

Frank Kelly returned by the Prince George today, and was driving his light rig down Centre street within a few minutes of landing.

TRIED TO SAVE EDITOR'S GIRL

Newspaperman Drowned Near San Diego While Trying to Save Daughter of His Chief.

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 12.—While bathing on the beach at Lajolla, Cecil Karberg, newspaper reporter, formerly of Spokane, was carried to sea by a huge billow and drowned while attempting to save the life of Dorothy McGrew, the ten-year-old daughter of the editor of the San Diego Sun.

Inflated wings attached to the child's arms held her up until Gilbert Stafford swam from shore and rescued her. James Rackenbury, a tourist from Denver, Col., displayed rare bravery in attempting to save Karberg. As each succeeding wave carried the reporter farther out to sea, Rackenbury, a powerful swimmer, soon found himself struggling with the huge breakers and was compelled to give up the fight. Karberg's body has not been found.
