MARVELS OF GT. PYRAMID

Robert Bartlett Tells Some of Result Of Studies Connected With Egyptian Structure

An interesting address on the Great Pyramid was given yesterday to members of the Prince Rupert Rotary Club at their regular luncheon meeting in the Commodore Cafe by Robert Bartlett, a student of British Israeal lore. This pyramid, which covers an area of thirteen acres, is pierced by tunnels, the measurements and direction of which all seem to have relation to astronomical or historical events. So striking are many of the facts and figures in this connection that, for many years they have been the marvel of scientists and students of history. They indicate that some people of two to three thousand years before the present era had a very complete knowledge of astronomy and the indications also seem to point to their being able to foretell important future events.

One interesting feature of the measurements is the fact that many of them lead to the mathematical quantity 3.14159 which is the ratio of the circumference of a circle to its radius.

The only inscription found in the chambers of the pyramid is that of Cheops, the king who is supposed to have had it erected.

At the close of the address Mr. Bartlett received the thanks of the club through President J. J. Little.

"PECK'S BAD BOY" OPENS

Well Known Story of Another Generation Screened at Capitol This Week-End

Jackie Cooper, that brilliant and appealing young player, is the star of a vital and human film story, "Peck's Bad Boy," which is being featured on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here this week-end. Jackie is seen as a fine two-fisted boy who is nearly crowded out of his father's life and affections by the plotting of an unprincipled aunt and her no less unprincipled son.

In addition to Jackie Cooper, a number of notable players have been assembled in the picture. Thomas Meighan, after a two years' retirement, returns to the screen to play the part of Jackie's father. Young Jackie Searl has an important role as Jackie's "bete-noir." Dorothy Peterson plays the part of the scheming aunt and O. P. Heggie is also in the cast.

Apart from the fine emotional quality of the film, it is said to abound in comedy. It is said to be in no sense a "kid" picture but an adult's story told in an adult's way. The screen story follows the book of another generation in all but a few details.

City Commissioner W. J. Alder is suffering from an attack of the current influenza complaint although he has been able so far to spend at least a short time daily in his office at the City Hall attending to municipal affairs.
