IS FINE MUSICAL

"Dames," Spectacular Entertainment, Offered at Capitol This Mid-Week

Said to be the most spectacular and gorgeous entertainment of its kind ever presented on the screen, "Dames" is the mid-week feature offering at the Capitol Theatre here. In addition to lavish spectacle, fine music and colorful dancing, the picture has a real plot. The cast includes six of the screen's leading stars. There are six song hits.

Never, it is said, has Joan Blondell appeared more beautiful and fascinating than as the wise-cracking, gold-digging chorus girl who makes trouble for all with whom she comes in contact and finally wins an eccentric millionaire, played by Hugh Herbert, whose mission in life is to correct the morals of everyone but himself Guy Kibbee, as the cousin and would-be beneficiary of the millionaire, and Zasu Pitts, as the straight-laced wife of Kibbee, provide the comedy. The love interest is furnished by Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell, who can act as well as dance and sing.

Sea Serpent Snap Shots

According to dispatches to Vancouver papers from Victoria, Premier T. D. Pattullo favors a proposal to purchase the sea monster for the provincial museum.

As for the disposal of the skeleton of Prince Rupert's "sea serpent," Dr. Neal Carter, director of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station, stated yesterday afternoon that he did not care to express himself until such time as he had heard from the Carnegie Museum Association to which application was made some time ago for a grant to assist in the establishment of a museum in connection with the local station.

Speaking of sea serpents or what have you, H. F. Ferris of Orcas Island, who has been in port with a party of Butte, Montana, men enroute to Alaska aboard a 33-foot yawl, says he has frequently seen along this coast marine creatures that rear their animal-like heads above the water as they swim along. Skipper Ferris inclines to think that these creatures are basking sharks under which classification Prince Rupert's now-famous sea monster has been placed. Skipper Ferris, who has done a lot of cruising in many waters, was much interested in the local skeleton.

William Dey, official of the Home Oil Distributors Limited, after spending a few days here on company business, sailed by the Catala yesterday afternoon on his return to Vancouver.
