TRAFFIC IS RESTORED

Delayed Train From East Now Due This Afternoon—Big Trouble Clear

Except for minor delays occasioned by small slides at various points along the line resulting from the present warm spell, traffic has now been restored largely to normal on the local line of the Canadian National Railways, it was reported this morning at divisional offices of the railway. The "sink hole" near Shere station between Red Pass and McBride, which has been delaying trains seriously during the past week, has now been bridged and it is expected will cause no further trouble.

The train, which was due from the east at 10 o'clock Tuesday night, is now expected to arrive at 4:45 this afternoon while the train, due from the east at 10 o'clock tonight, is reported to be three hours late which would bring it in at 1 a.m.
