

Your Goodwill is the Aim of C.N.R. Employees.

Some people are inclined to think of the railway worker as just a cog in a great machine consisting of endless tracks and engines and stations and cars-as a being almost mechanical whose duty begins and ends with doing his appointed part in keeping the machine going. They incline to overlook the personal and individual interest he has in seeing that the utmost satisfaction is given to everyone, of whatever age or rank, who uses the services of the railway which he helps to operate. Such an attitude is not correct and leaves out of account one of the most important factors which contribute to the pleasure of travel.

An outstanding reason for the safety and comfort which the C. N. R. provides is to be found in its personnel. Each employee on whom the slightest responsibility rests is first of all an efficient worker-whatever his job he is qualified to perform it. But the C. N. R. requires that he be more than an efficient and dependable worker.

In all his relations with the public he is trained to be and is anxious to be of service to them: . . . to be helpful . . . to be thoughtful . . . to be courteous ... to do all possible to make travel agreeable and pleasant. He is determined to obtain the goodwill of his company's patrons - the goodwill which is the lifeblood of a railway and all engaged in it.

There is real satisfaction in knowing that when your friends and relatives, young or old, travel by the C. N. R. they are not only having placed at their service all the resources of a great railway system, but they are also the recipients of the personal consideration of each railway worker or attendant with whom they may come in contact. And of course this feeling is not lessened when it is one's self who is travelling.

Travel by C. N. R. on your next trip—be it long or short—and see how highly your goodwill is esteemed. You will be pleased.

George Frizzell Entertained Many Friends on Sunday

Sunday afternoon marked another forward step in the development of Port Essington and district when George Frizzell entertained about seventy of his friends at the official opening of his hot springs situated about two miles above Port Essington.

Mr. Frizzell now has eight cabins and an apartment house and two tanks available for use of his guests. One of the tanks is eighteen feet long, ten feet wide and six feet deep at one end. Many availed themselves of the opportunity to take a plunge and swim around in the hot springs water.

Luncheon was served on the spacious lawn in front of the cabins from where a delightful view of the surrounding district could be seen. The setting bordered on the river with the snow-capped mountains in the distance. An occasional fish could be seen jumping in the river.

Transportation of Mr. Frizzell's many friends and well wishers in his new enterprise was under the capable charge of Stewart Donaldson. The boats Norbeec, Capt. Vic Grant; Two Rivers, Capt. Donaldson, and the Laura F, were used to convey the party from Port Essington and return.
