CRISIS ON IN FRANCE

French Chamber to Vote Tomorrow On New Constitutional Bill Of Premier Doumergue

tical vote on the government's new constitutional bill is scheduled to take place tomorrow. On its result the Doumergue ministry will stand or fall. The bill would give the Premier authority to dissolve Parliament in the event of war or national emergency. Chief opposition to the measure is based on the ground that . it would give Premier Gaston Doumergue dictatorial powers.

The situation became further critical for Premier Doumergue through the threat of Finance Minister Jurmain-Martin to resign in protest at the Premier going over his head in preparing legislation.

Radical Socialists, who had threatened to withdraw from Doumergue's ministry yesterday, met last night and decided to carry on for the time being, the cabinet being thus saved temporarily although it is doubtful if the disaffection is healed for long. Special precautions have been taken by the authorities to prevent street fighting or demonstrations such as those which preceded the overthrow of the Daladier administration last February when Doumergue was called into the breach.
