THE FIGHT'S THE THING

Thursday night there was a big fight in New York be- ure. Workers were still being made tween two men trained in the art of hitting each other as victims of the capitalistic system hard and effectively as possible. The whole continent was by the present political parties. The watching and eagerly awaiting news of the outcome and competition between capital and details of the combat. On the day of the fight school chil- tise Christian ethics. The issue in dren were discussing the possible outcome and the relative merits and demerits of the combatants.

This all bears out what we have often said in the past, that the world loves a fighter. Even a peace advocate fights for his cause.

There was actually no scarcity in the world today, to the contrary, the world had come to the golden age of plenty which the prophets and the seers of old had foretold. The economic plan, however, was still based on the economy of scarcity. What was needed now was a scientific revolution in the realm of ideasthe plan must be changed to fit in with the new condition of plenty. Machinery of production, distribution and wealth must be employed for the benefit of all, not for the benefit of a few profit takers. A purchasing power must be built up whereby the people would be enabled to enjoy the returns of their contribution to society. Today the worker was paid only a small fraction of what he was instrumental in producing. In the face of plenty, many were unable to obtain the barest of necessities. Profits were concentrated in the hands of a few corporations. By the system of interlocking directorates, a few people were virtual economic dictators, controlling directly or indirectly every phase of the lives of the people. What freedom did the people have under such a system? The idea of the C. C. F. was to unleash rather than curb individual initiative and ensure the future Chicago economic security of the people. It stood for a new system of distribution of wealth, eliminating the money motive but permitting people to work for the satisfaction of

The day of the export market was we must think of expanding purseeds. A system should be built which was non-competitive with other nations and not dependent upon foreign markets for profit Because of this inherent mischief in the human race Then the nations would not be interested in wars. Mrs. Steeves described as "bunk" the theory that Great Britain had entered Great War in defence of little Belgium and "the scrap of paper." Ri-

SPORT CHAT

There was a large and enthusiastic crowd of fans on hand at the opening game Thursday night of the Dominion Day Cup football series. Neither the ardor of the players or the spectators was dampened by a heavy shower in the first half. The rain passed over and the second half was favored with ideal weather for soccer. Brick Skinner gave good service as referee. The popular Brick has had perforce, to be pressed into service to referee all games so far this season. The Football Association has announced that any capable referees who might care to offer their services to relieve him would be should be developed in this countr so that the desire of the people would be to learn and give the fruits of their learning to the community. A system of perfect social equality and opportunity should be available to all.

Answering questions, Mrs. Steeves said that the C. C. F. would be ready to co-operate with any Socialistic movement such as that of the Soviet Union. Some of the so-called questions developed rather into
