Georgia River Property in Portland Canal District Re-opening—Crawford Prepared to Build Customs Ore Bunkers at Stewart

F. B. Shearme of Vancouver is at present at Stewart making all necessary arrangements for the re-opening of the Georgia River property. The Georgia River is now controlled by the Helena Gold Mines Company and it is understood this company will furnish capital for development. It is the intention of the management to employ a small crew of men at the commencement of operations and gradually increase their numbers as circumstances warrant.

Good progress has been made during the past two months in prospecting and development work on the Roosevelt Syndicate claims on the north fork of Bitter Creek. The work done has been mainly directed to the tracing of vein systems throughout the property and in the continuation of No. 2 tunnel on which some twenty feet had been driven many years ago in a decomposed ledge showing stringers and bunches of galena. This tunnel has been extended twenty feet and the face is now in the unaltered vein which shows two feet of ore. There is mineralization throughout the ledge which is four feet in width. Some of the ore shows native silver. Samples of ore from different points in the tunnel have given returns from 0.16 oz. gold, 42 oz. silver to 0.56 oz. gold and 142 oz. silver across widths from three to eighteen inches. A new discovery was made on a parallel vein about 300 feet east of No. 2 vein and carrying ore but no work has yet been done on this showing which was found shortly before closing down operations for the season.

The Stewart Board of Trade is asking the federal Department of Mines to make further geological surveys in the Portland Canal section next summer. There is a vast area in the immediate vicinity of Stewart that has not yet been geologized and which, when made available with proper geological maps and data, is believed should prove a profitable field for intensive prospecting.

J. J. Hepson and Charlie Biehl, owners of the El Oro property on Bitter Creek in the Portland Canal district, report having uncovered another very promising vein on their ground. The showing is further down the hill and parallels the lead upon which they are working. They have erected a good camp building and have taken in sufficient supplies to last for the winter.

The Crawford Transfer Co. of Stewart has announced that it is prepared to construct ore bunkers on the Stewart waterfront capable of handling all customs ore shipments offering in that district. The company states that, just as soon as business offering justifies such improvements, it is prepared to increase the capacity of its facilities.

The Ben Ali unit of the Dunwell mine at Stewart is now in a position to carry on mining operations on an economical basis, it is announced. The 100-foot raise from No. 3 level to No. 2 level has been completed and all ore being mined is delivered to the ore bunkers at the portal of No. 3 tunnel. The tramway, approximately 1000 feet in length, is running and delivering ore to the bunkers in the valley, close to the Bear River road. Recently the government, under the supervision of Road Foreman Hugh McDonald, constructed a short stub road from the main highway to the Ben Ali lower tramway terminal. This improvement will permit heavy ore-carrying trucks to make frequent trips with ore for shipment to the Granby smelter at Anyox. The objective of the company management is to step up production from this unit to 500 tons per day. Last week a bargeload of 435 tons of Dunwell concentrates was shipped to Anyox, another 52 tons going forward this week.

An examination of the United Empire mine at Stewart has just been completed by F. W. Guernsey, Vancouver mining engineer, and his assistant, H. W. Agnew.

With the price of silver still showing a tendency to advance, there is every inducement for prospectors and mining men to continue their eforts to prove up many known promising silver properties in the various northern districts and take up the search for new ones.
