WILL CO-OPERATE

It is satisfactory to know that Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, who is expected to be Prime Minister very soon, will co-operate with Premier Aberhart of Alberta in his effort to test out the Douglas Credit system of government in that province. He suggests that, if it works there, the plan will be adopted by the whole world soon, thus putting an end to poverty.

While there is a great deal of dissension in political life, it is good to know that there is also co-operation when co-operation is essential to success.

PREMIER BENNETT'S POSITION

Before the radio speeches of the Prime Minister, which concluded last week, we were led to believe that some startling policies were to be announced. Since the beginning of these addresses we have been treated to a series of speeches containing nothing but apologies for having failed to keep his last election promises. He asks the people of Canada for another five years of life so that he may carry on as he did before. No fundamental changes in policy are proposed. The country is still to be held back by stifling trade policies and by continuation of the dole.

We have a certain amount of sympathy with Mr. Bennett in his struggles during the past few years of depression. Undoubtedly it was a trying time and it was a time when a really big man would have shown some initiative. What do we find instead? We find that Mr. Bennett saddles the country with a new bank which does nothing but reduce the size of the dollar bills. We find that he saddles the country with a tremendous wheat hold-over which cannot now be sold. We find that there is still a huge army of unemployed and no definite steps taken to put them to work except through the policy of attempting again to blast his way into the markets of the world.

Mr. Bennett has had a hard time undoubtedly and the people of Canada looked to him thinking he was the political Moses who would lead them to the promised land but he failed his people in the time of stress and now the people are turning to another leader, believing that he will change Canada from a land of stagnation to a land of opportunity and plenty.

Louis Knocks Out Baer in Brief Fistic Battle

Pugilism's Sensational New Find Finishes Ex-Champ in Fourth Round

Many Consider Californian Giant Was Lucky to Last That Long—Dawn of New Era of Prosperity in Cauliflower Industry Seen

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Joe Louis confirmed his position as outstanding claimant of the world's heavyweight boxing crown last night when, running true to sensational form, he disposed of the garrulous former world's champion, Max Baer, with a knock-out in the fourth round. In the minds of the experts, despite all the ballyhoo and all the froth, there was little doubt of the issue even before the fight and it was not long after the opening going that there was also no question in the minds of the multitude of fans assembled as to what the outcome was to be. Just how long it would take to end the Californian giant's agony was the only question although it was evident it would not be long. To the most of those present, it seemed Max did well to stay on his feet as long as he did under the fierce double-fisted onslaught of the panther-like negro. He took a merciless beating. Louis' left, landing repeatedly with wicked six-inch jabs, being particularly devastating.

The fight marked curtains as far as Baer's career as a first-rater is concerned. It also established Louis as the greatest pugilistic drawing card since Jack Dempsey's heyday. For the promoters it bids fair to mark the end of the depression for the cauliflower industry.

The place was the Yankee Stadium—the crowd 90,000—the gate over $1,000,000.

The knock-out came two minutes and six seconds after the start of the fourth of a scheduled fifteen round battle. Baer took the count of ten, helpless on one knee. He had been saved by the bell in the third round and, withal, took a terrific beating.

Terrific Punishment

In the less than twelve minutes that Baer faced Louis the former champion took a beating so unmerciful that the crowd gasped at the cruelty of it.

Baer said later that he was through with fighting.

It was announced today that each man had collected $215,000.

Jack Dempsey declared that there was no fighter in sight capable of beating Louis.

The ringside weights were: Baer, 210½ pounds; Louis, 199½.

The dusky Detroit dynamiter was married shortly before entering the ring and last night began a $300,000 honeymoon in Harlem.

Terrible Punishment

Probably on the same Wembley Stadium card in November, Bland, Canadian lightweight champion will be matched with Jack Kio Berg, London's Whitechapel windmill, for the British lightweight title. Kaplansky left a few days ago without, however, having signed Bland for this fight. "Kap," who once managed amateur hockey teams in Kitchener, Ont., and professional teams in Edmonton, plans on giving the youthful Armstrong every opportunity to find his way along the professional path.

"I don't believe in a lot of ballyhoo about a boy who is untried and there won't be any about Spider," Kaplansky said. Armstrong was regarded as one of Canada's brightest Olympic hopes until he signed a contract with Kaplansky. "You know, I first saw Wenstob fight at Edmonton. He never fought as an amateur. When we started for England after Eddie had done well in the west, I decided we would do no boasting. If Eddie was good the fight crowds would soon recognize that fact.

"Of course, he was good. I didn't take them long to find that out and meanwhile he was fighting the kind of opposition I wanted him to fight. He needed experience. Towards the end of the indoor season he was a top-notch, one of the most popular boxers in England. "And that's how it will be with Bland and Armstrong. They've got what it takes but especially in Armstrong's case there won't be any rush. Bland, I think is ready for a title shot without delay."

SPORT CHAT

Titles, titles! That's what Mike Kaplansky and his triple-threat Canadian box-fight stable are going to gun for in England this winter. Mike isn't going to rush his boys along too fast, but he wants titles. The Kaplansky stable is made up of Eddy Wenstob, Edmonton light heavyweight; Tommy Bland, Toronto lightweight and Jack 'Spider' Armstrong, Toronto bantam. Manager Mike believes he has a stable with less deadwood than almost any in the fight business.

HAUPTMANN IS ENIGMA

Faithful Wife Soothed by Tale Of Good Fortune While Condemned Man Awaits Result of Appeal

TRENTON, N.J., Sept. 25. (AP)—Twelve months behind bars, seven of them with a death sentence hanging over his head for the kidnap-slaying of the Lindbergh baby, have done little to solve the riddle that is Bruno Richard Hauptmann. He was arrested September 19, 1934.

His year of legal strife has left him outwardly unchanged, save for the minor changes attendant on imprisonment. His hair is closely shorn today and his face has the pallor of the death house. But as he awaits the decision of the court of errors and appeals, expected next month, he is calm and is stoical as he was during his long trial at Flemington.

Anna Hauptmann, his wife, believes she, her husband and their 22-month old son, soon will go on a long ocean voyage. "It's in the cards," she said, showing visible traces of her year of fighting to save her husband.

"I don't believe in fortune telling, but a woman recently found in my cards that Richard will be home soon as a result of an awfully big surprising thing. Then we shall all go on a long ocean trip. I know that will be true."

Sees Husband Often

Mrs. Hauptmann sees her husband in the death house at Trenton once, sometimes twice, a month, as often as prison authorities allow. She receives mail from him about as often. Using her maiden name, Anna Schoeffler, to avoid publicity, she lives with her baby in a Bronx apartment.

Hauptmann's confidence in his destiny may have been shaken that night of February 13 when he heard a jury of eight men and four women utter their conviction of his guilt, followed by the sentence of death. But he quickly recovered.

His jailers say he is an ideal prisoner. He asks no favors and he expects none. One prison official thinks his behavior may be traced to his war-time training in the German army. He talks quietly to

Senator Lewis In Critical Condition

Heart Action Weakened and Physicians Concerned Over Chances of Recovery

MOSCOW, Sept. 25.—Weak heart action caused physical last night to announce that United States Senator John Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, who has been taken ill with bronchial pneumonia while on a tour of Soviet Russia, is still in a critical condition. Crisis is due tomorrow and, if pulse and respiration are more normal, there is considerable doubt as to whether he has sufficient strength left to carry through.

His guards and to Col. Max Kimberling, the warden. He professed his innocence at times.

Physically Fit

Physically he is probably as fit as he was that September year ago when he was halted, handcuffed on a Bronx street, strong will is accountable for Hauptmann perhaps has never laxed since he was imprisoned. When he was brought to Flemington a month after his arrest, began losing weight, but his mind occupied with his proaching trial. He read books, improved his English. He also dined.

In the past seven months, has exercised conscientiously, stripping to the waist in his cell. The autobiography he has written has helped him considerably to master his emotions, keep him from despair.

Four men have gone to the gas chamber. Three went on to Hauptmann was unmoved. He them to "pray to God" and shake hands with the condemned, but his face was set. A slight spiritual change is said to have taken place in him. He reads the Bible and religious books, brought him by the Rev. D. G. Werner of New York, his spiritual adviser.

He has gained 10 pounds in the death house (most prisoners do gain weight), and all his visitors invariably say he looks well and is cheerful. Next month he will know if he is to get a new trial. Meanwhile he waits.
