Style Show, Featuring Bridal Procession, Presented by Catholic Altar Society is Most Delightful Diversion

A delightfully refreshing and diverting innovation in the way of local entertainment was the fashion show and afternoon tea presented by the Catholic Church Altar Society in the Catholic School Hall yesterday afternoon under the convenership of Mrs. G. W. Nickerson. It was the first occasion on which function of this kind had been attempted in Prince Rupert and it; proved highly popular. The two large sections of the hall were filled with interested callers who sat at tea tables as the fashion show, supplemented by an acceptable musical program, proceeded.

The hall presented a most attractive scene with its spring decora-! tions of green and yellow. Hundreds of daffodils were used in the decorative scheme with banks of salal leaves and evergreens in the arches and on the window sills. Streamers of green and yellow crepe paper under sheets of cellophane glinted in the bright sunshine pouring through the windows. There were also special lighting effects by Louis Amadio and J. Garofani.

The style show was, of course, the principal attraction of the afternoon. Many charming models exhibited to splendid advantage a large number of stunning creations in evening, afternoon, street and sports wear, the highlight of the whole display being the bridal procession which was beautiful indeed.

Tailored suits, swagger suits, coats, lanseas, sport suits, tennis dresses, afternoon and evening dresses, pajamas in varying shades. and styles were displayed and due attention was also paid to the other portions of ensembles as well as to

The models for the afternoon were Mrs. A. J. Webber, Miss Annie Boddie, Miss Maxine Heilbroner, Norman Wilson of the Canadian Mrs. Graham Cottam, Miss Mary ering office here sailed on the Miss Marjorie Blance, Miss Lorna Prince Rupert last right for a visit McLaren. Miss Polema Cameron. Miss Marybelle Stiles, Miss Laura Stephens, Miss Helen McCaffery, Mrs. Jack Garrett, Miss Georgina McKenzie, Miss Leona Parker and Rochester and Glenna Moore.
