Finds Politics Hard on Pocket

Not So Profitable After All, Nova Scotia Parliamentarian Finds

SHUBENACADIE, N.S., Sept. 24: (CP)—A politician's life may have its rewards, but they're not on the financial side, according to M. L. Urquhart, Colchester's representative in the last Parliament. During the five-year period, he said here, his position had brought him appeals for money adding up to $250,000. They ranged from the 50-cent handout to one for $5,000. And the sum total of his donations, Mr. Urquhart asserted, came to more than his Parliamentary indemnity.

CAREER OF COMEDIAN

DeWolf Hopper Achieved Success After Many Vicissitudes

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 24: (AP)—As one of the great comedians of the American stage, DeWolf Hopper, who died suddenly yesterday here, achieved fame in a profession other than that for which he was intended by his parents. His father was a lawyer and was ambitious that some day his son might join him in the practice of that profession. DeWolf Hopper went through with the plan so far as his preliminary education was concerned and to the extent of spending six months in a law office. About that time he took part in an amateur performance of "Conscience" at the old Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York. After that he manifested a restlessness and distaste for law.

It was not long after that DeWolf Hopper's father died and, with money received from the estate, the son organized his own theatrical company. The venture proved a failure, but Hopper emerged from it with some of his money and his unbounded confidence intact. He then financed and managed a tour through the west and south of a company playing "One Hundred Wives," the stranding of which ended his career as a manager.

He then was engaged by Edward Harrigan for a part in "The Blackbird," at the conclusion of which he began training his bass voice with the idea of entering grand opera. That was interrupted when Daniel Frohman engaged him in 1884 for the Madison Square Theatre Company, for which he played in "Hazel Kirke" and "May Blossom." He resumed his vocal training until the fall of 1885, when he joined the McCaull Opera Company, with which for several seasons he shared honors with Digby Bell and Jefferson DeAngelis.

Famous Comedian
Called upon to play an important role on short notice, he did so well that he was immediately made the principal comedian of the company. Thereafter he continued to enhance his reputation and by 1890 was recognized as one of the brilliant stars of the comic opera stage, appearing that year as the star in "Castles in the Air."

The comedian, whose full name was William DeWolf Hopper, was born in New York, March 30, 1858, the son of John and Rosalie DeWolf Hopper. His paternal grandfather was Taton Hopper, a famous Quaker philanthropist and abolitionist. While achieving fame as a comedian and comic opera star, Mr. Hopper continually attracted attracted attention by his marital experiences. He married six times and figured in five divorces. His first wife was Ella Gardiner, a cousin on his mother's side, and his second, Ida Mosher of Boston, a member of the chorus of the McCaull Opera Company. These two marriages had been contracted and dissolved by divorce before Hopper had passed his twenty-eighth year. His third union, with Edna Wallace, a noted actress, continued from 1893 to 1898, and the next year he married Nella Reardon Bergen. The fifth Mrs. Hopper was Ella Furry, whom he married in 1913 and who obtained a divorce in 1924. A year later Hopper married for the sixth time, Mrs. Lillian Glaser, a singer of Oakland, Cal. The comedian was the father of two sons, one by his second wife and one by his fifth.

Mr. and Mrs. Digby Robinson of Victoria, after making the round trip north aboard the steamer Catala, were here again today returning home.

YOUTHFUL PREMIER

Youngest Minister in Canada's History, Hon. E. C. Manning, Is Real Crusader

EDMONTON, Sept. 24: (CP)—The Alberta Social Credit party's coat-of-arms, it has been suggested, might well bear the figure of youth rampant. Members of the newly-elected government hold the distinction of being the youngest in the Dominion. Ernest Charles Manning, 26-year old provincial secretary, acted as premier while his party chief visited Ottawa to negotiate a loan. Rocketed from obscurity to a cabinet suite in the provincial parliament buildings, Manning's short political career has been compared to that of William Pitt, who, at the age of 24, assumed the mantle of premier of Great Britain. Youthful experiences have fashioned the philosophy of the slim, sandy-haired crusader.

Born on a farm, near Carnduff, Sask., he has always taken a keen interest in economic problems. He believes Christianity should go hand in hand with political life. His interests are the welfare of Alberta's young people and the institution of the aggressive policies his party sponsors.

Aberhart's Lieutenant
Eight years ago he took a course at the Calgary Prothetic Bible Institute and was its first graduate. Later he became his principal's secretary and first lieutenant. When Aberhart became interested in the principles of Social Credit Manning became the fellow student. Three years ago they made an educational tour of the province.

An attempt was made the following year to persuade the government headed by Premier J. E. Brownlee to adopt their program. When this failed they decided to make it a political issue. The newly formed Social Credit party was voted into office at the August 24 general elections and Manning was selected by his leader for one of the chief cabinet posts.

"People who say Social Credit is merely inflation disguised are ignorant of the 'just price' feature in our system," the farm boy-economist believes. "We are not contemplating any radical changes. We will be making adjustments as we go along. We will go ahead with our aggressive ideas but we won't do anything rash."

"You must remember all of us entered into this in the spirit of a crusade. We're not politicians. When you realize there are tremendous numbers of people who need something done for them you instinctively want to do what is best." Manning has held office only a short time but already benches bulge with visitors demanding audiences.
