FIGHT IS FINISHED

Frenzied Fancy and Fiery Proth Feature Final Phase of Federal Fantasie

A public meeting by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, which drew a capacity audience of over four hundred persons to the Moose Hall; local radio addresses by C. H. Orme, Conservative candidate, and by G. W. Nickerson, on behalf of Olof Hanson, the Liberal candidate, who spent the day at Port Essington and other points around the mouth of the Skeena River, as well as national hook-up radio addresses by Premier R. B. Bennett, speaking in Belleville, Ont., and Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, and Hon. H. H. Stevens, head of the Reconstructionist Party, both of whom spoke from Ottawa, featured the closing of the federal election campaign Saturday night as far as Prince Rupert was concerned. Thus there were no local people who were interested in politics who did not have the final opportunity of assimilating something of the various doctrines.

ISSUE IS DIFFERENT

Dugald Donaghy, prominent Liberal in federal politics, who deserted the Liberal party in the last provincial election to become prominently identified with the Independent Non-Partizan movement, intimated, while speaking at the public meeting here last Friday night in support of Olof Hanson, Liberal candidate in the federal election, that he had again changed his views in regard to provincial politics. After explaining that the Liberal and Conservative parties always had a distinct line of cleavage in the federal field on tariff policies and economic principles, a cleavage that had heretofore not existed in provincial politics where the question of greater importance had been more in regard to administration and economy. Mr. Donaghy declared that a cleavage on economic principles was now developing in the provincial field. "The next provincial election issue," asserted Mr. Donaghy, "would be fought between socialization, as represented by the C. C. F., or a continuation of the present form of party government which had prevailed since the days of Sir Richard McBride." Mr. Donaghy intimated that he would not be supporting socialism.
