GRANTING OF TITLES

Editor, Daily News:-

In recounting the achievements of the government to audiences throughout the country, Mr. Ben- 6:00-Town Hall Tonite, W2XAF. nett very modestly refrains from including in the list the revival of the practice of granting titles.

The granting of titles was discontinued following the passing of a resolution in the House of Commons in 1917. When Mr. Bennett became Prime Minister, he took the matter out of the hands of Parliament on the ground that a resolution of one Parliament is not binding on later Parliaments. Mr. Bennett claimed the right and went ahead to grant titles. It is something that should be properly included in his record and some defence of it might be expected from him and the Conservative candidate in this constituency. But, if it should by chance be mentioned, he would soon learn what the people think of this great achievement. The time when Mr. Bennett performed this heroic act was when distress in Canada was acute and most deeply widespread. Mr. Bennett could not find time to solve the question of substituting employment for doles. But he could spare the time to give thoughtful consideration to the granting of knighthood-leading to his conviction that this was one of the country's needs.

It is rather a pity that credit is not now claimed by the Conservatives for this bright feature of the government's record.
