THE ALBERTA ELECTION

The result of the eection in Alberta is a reflection of the present rather disturbed condition of the country. It shows that people generally are dissatisfied and in the western prairie province it indicates that the people are ready to try anything which promises a way out of the present stagnant condition. In that province they tried a Farmer government but it had little success. The old line parties have had little chance of election there for many years past. Now they have turned from what was in reality a union government under the United Farmers to test out one of the most recent plans of curing the body politic.

The Aberhart system of social credit is nearly related to the Douglas system but it seems to be better defined, less in the clouds. The farmers and city dwellers in Alberta seem to have taken to it immediately it was propounded. Now the rest of the people of the country will watch the experiment with very keen interest. Douglas, in his recent report to the government of the province, said it could not succeed in a province owing to constitutional limitations. Aberhart declared there were no limitations that could interfere with its success. We shall see.

The election result seems to have been due to the energy, pertinacity and faith of one man, a school teacher, who was not a candidate but whom it is presumed will lead the new party and probably become premier of the province.

THE ALASKA HIGHWAY

Throughout the central interior of British Columbia the residents are keenly interested in the move to construct a highway from Vancouver to the Yukon Territory connecting with a section carrying the highway on to Fairbanks, Alaska. While no one seemed quite certain who should build the highway, all were for it as a means of opening up this country and of extending the goodwill movement between Canada and United States.

It is claimed by the people of the interior that the Alaska Highway would mean more to them than the Peace River western outlet or any other suggested move for development and increase of business. It seems to rank next to the Prince Rupert pulp mill in general interest among the residents.

Of course the matter of route was bound to cause discussion. At Prince George the opinion seemed to be that it should go northerly from Summit Lake to Finlay Forks and then northwesterly from there. At Vanderhoof the argument was put up that the road north from there was already constructed for something like one hundred miles and that it passed through the best developed mining country in the province, a country that was badly needing an outlet. From the Omineca mines it would go to Finlay Forks with the Alaska Highway turning in a westerly direction and the Peace River Highway easterly through Peace Pass.

At places west of Vanderhoof, they were all for the Hazelton route, suggesting it go up the Kispiox River, part of which is already constructed. It is strongly urged by others that the highway go north from Kitwanga through the Kitwancool Valley. This route, it is claimed by its advocates, would be the easiest and with less new construction than any of the other advocated routes. It would tap the rich Naas Valley, the Groundhog coalfieds, and other mining, timber and farming areas which would prove of great value to the province. Further it is claimed that this route provides no insuperable difficulties such as high mountain ranges to cross, the divide between Kitwanga and the Naas being a comparatively low pass.

It seems to be the general idea that the money for construction of the road will come from the United States but on what terms or under what arrangement no one can sugest. What all seem anxious for is that the Dominion Government shall confer on the matter with the United States Government with a view to arriving at an understanding which would solve the difficult problem and insure construction of the highway.

In any case engineers would have to decide the route.

Lead of New York Giants Reduced To One Game As Cardinals Take Double-header From Brooklyn

BROOKLYN, August 24, (CP):—By winning a double-header victory over the Dodgers here yesterday, the St Louis Cardinals moved into striking distance of the New York Giants, who dropped another to the Chicago Cubs at the Polo Grounds, for the supremacy of the National League. But one game now seperates the Cardinals from the Giants while the Cubs, in turn, are only one game behind the Cardinals. One of the closest finishes in years in the National League appears to be looming between these three teams.

In the American League, the Detroit Tigers, playing at home, blanked the slipping Boston Red Sox while the New York Yankees defeated the Browns at St Louis. The lead of the Tigers is still seven full games. The White Sox eked out a close victory over the Senators at Chicago and are in third place with but a mathematical lead over the Cleveland Indians who had an easy victory over the Philadelphia Athletics at Cleveland.

Yesterday's Big League scores:

Pittsburgh 7; Boston 5.
St. Louis 6-11; Brooklyn 1-5.
Chicago 7; New York 4.

AIYANSH WINS OVER MASSETT

Eleven From Upper Naas Had No Difficulty in Disposing of Islanders by Score of Five To Nil

Aiyansh had no difficulty in taking Massett into camp by a score of 5 to nil yesterday afternoon in a football game staged in connection with the Silver Jubilee Carnival sports. Aiyansh is billed to meet Prince Rupert All Stars tonight and an exciting contest is expected as the locals won over Massett 2 to 1 in a game which was played Thursday. Trophy and medals will go to the winners.

Both teams put everything they had into the play yesterday and the game was a fine example of hard soccer competition as well as good clean sportsmanship.

James Andrews acted as referee.
