Whole Pacific Northwest Lumber Industry Threatened With Tie-Up

SEATTLE, May 9: (CP)—The strike of lumber workers, which is gradually spreading, threatens to tie up the industry all along the coast. At present sixteen thousand workers are idle, two thousand being loggers where camps are shut down.

The men are demanding a 33-hour week with an hourly wage increase from 41½¢ to 75¢.

Mills at Everett, Bellingham, Tacoma, Portland, Anacortes, Olympia and Vancouver, Wash., are closed.

As well as loggers, longshoremen, refusing to load ships, are idle.

In Seattle eleven out of twelve mills are closed.

At Portland a number of ships sailed without cargo when longshoremen refused to load lumber. There were similar developments in Seattle.

In addition to wage increases and shorter hours, union recognition is demanded.

Little violence has appeared so far.

MARITIME WORKERS' STRIKE

At San Francisco the possibility of a new coastwise maritime strike appeared when the newly formed Maritime Federation of the Pacific ordered a referendum within seventy-two hours as to whether marine and shipping workers should walk out in support of twelve thousand striking oil tanker men.

Union officials assert that the Perkin's mediation board is on the side of the companies.

GENERAL CONDITIONS IN INTERIOR BETTER THAN IN FIVE YEARS

General conditions in the Bulkley Valley are better today than they have been in five years, declares S. J. Mayer of Smithers who was a visitor in town yesterday. The farming outlook is greatly improved. Higher metal prices are making the prospects for mining much better and already there is much greater activity. Larger tie contracts and pole orders are causing expansion in the timber industry. Railway traffic has increased as a result of the general revival and also because of the increased grain movement. Mr. Mayer arrived from the interior on Tuesday night's train and returned to Smithers last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Buchan

New Governor General of Canada and His Lady. They will arrive in Canada this fall from England.
