Dr. Warren of University of British Columbia Gives Interesting Address to Rotarians

What other places are doing in the way of university extension and other educational work was the theme of the address of Dr. Harry V. Warren yesterday afternoon at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club. He mentioned particularly the Chilliwack Economics Forum. This is based on the text book, Cole's 'Intelligent Man's Guide Through World Chaos," which every member is expected to read. He highly recommended this book to all people who were interested in such studies. One feature of the course was a weekly symposium of a few minutes on current events of the day. Subjects down for discussion included "The Present Crisis," "Money and Credit," "Unemployment," "Trade and Tariffs," "Public Finance and Taxation," "The Stock Market," "Alternatives to Capitalism," "The

Throughout the province there vere 161 branches of the Women's nstitutes with a total membership of 4,500, many in the remote parts of the province. Short courses in home economics, home nursing, handicrafts, interior decorating and cultural study groups feature the gatherings of these organizations. The speaker also mentioned the excellent work done by Parent! reachers. He told too of the work of the University in providing! speakers and radio addresses.
