TERRACE

Little Miss Norma Kenney, recently while playing near her home, vas suddenly attacked and bitten by a dog. The incident, fortunately, proved more terrifying than dangerous as she soon got over it and went to school as usual.

The Terrace and District Board of Trade, at the regular monthly meeting, listened to a paper delivered by H. Halliwell on the subject of "Douglas Credit." A general discussion followed and a resolution was drafted asking the provincial government to inquire into the feasibility of setting up some such plan for this province.

Markets Commissioner J. A. Grant addressed the members of the Farmers' Institute and their friends in the Legion Hall on Wednesday last on the subject of marketing. There was a fair crowd and the meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to Mr. Grant.

A much larger and more enthusiastic crowd went to the Orange Hall to hear Rev. John Linney preach on the subject of the three most prominent people in Terrace. Some of the congregation were disillusioned when they realized there were to be no personal revelations Ideals only and no names men-jof last week in the Owls' Club. tioned!

English Children Feel Benefits of Slum Clearance

These pictures will illustrate what is being done in England to clear away the slums. They show the re-housing work wherein new houses replace ramshackle tenements and cellars. In the picture at top a street in the slums of London is shown; children are forced to play in narrow streets where traffic is heavy and where sunlight permeates only for the briefest periods. Contrast this with the picture below, where a new street has risen from the dust of the old. Flowers, gardens, plenty of room and sunlight and air give children a chance to live normally. Such homes as these are being built at the rate of thousands per year in English cities. Through government subsidy they are available to even the lowest wage-earner.
