LOCAL PEOPLE PLEASED

Local people were pleased to learn yesterday that Prince Rupert's plea for a lowering of the duty on halibut had at last been granted. Throughout the last Parliament the member for Skeena had been urging this change and directly the opportunity came the change was made.

We should all have liked to see the duty wiped out altogether but the limit of the United States President's power was to cut the duty in half. The result should be that Canadian halibut boats will get one cent more for their catches next year.

Lumber producers are also given an opportunity to again enter the United States market with a cut of two dollars a thousand feet. Instead of paying four dollars a thousand they now will have to pay only two dollars, a very considerable difference. It may be expected that a good many interior mills will reopen before long, especially in view of the improving business conditions throughout the continent.

PROTECT LOCAL BUSINESSMEN

Local merchants should be better protected by the authorities in preventing outside firms coming here and doing business without paying a licence. Every Vancouver, Edmonton or Seattle firm that sends a canvasser to Prince Rupert should pay a licence for so doing. We demand a fifty dollar licence from local people who sell goods from door to door. We have in mind seeing a man with one arm going from door to door and trying to eke out a living under a severe handicap. To ask that man to pay $50 for a licence and then to allow total strangers representing big firms to come to the city and sell their goods in competition with people who pay licences is not a fair thing to do. All should contribute to the city funds and the bigger the firm the more determined should the authorities be to see that it does not operate without paying.

MUNICIPALITIES IN DIFFICULTIES

More municipalities are getting into financial difficulties. Salmon Arm last year collected only seventy percent of its taxes, so it is asking its bondholders to take seventy percent of their interest. Other municipalities are said to be in similar plight.

Evidently Prince Rupert did the right thing in compounding with its creditors early in the depression, for now the city is able to pay its way on the new basis as long as the finances are being carefully managed.

Lambie & Stone hit their stride last night in the Senior Basketball League, defeating the Grotto 34-30. Half time score was 20-14 in favor of Lambie & Stone. The Grotto team did not click and was in poor shooting form. Johnson was the most effective player for Lambie & Stone with Lindsay garnering 16 points. In the last few minutes the Clothiers left their defence wide open but the Grotto team did not take advantage although they had their centre Morgan waiting patiently under the basket for passes that never came.

SPORT CHAT

Hockey is on its way to a great season in England, judging by the capacity crowds attending October and early-November games, but the game is still in its infancy there. There is one certain proof of that, proof that isn't failing to make Canadian players smile. English spectators still regard the player who is penalized as a menace to clean sport, a ruffian whose behavior or misbehavior isn't to be condoned. They give him a rare old vocal send-off when he skates toward the penalty box—that bit of hockey equipment that remains strange to the Briton.

"Rough stuff" is still front page news to the British press. A dozen penalties in hockey, indicating about the same degree of lawlessness prevailing in a soccer game where penalty kicks are awarded, are sufficient to cause writers about the new sport to become indignant. And, whereas blows in soccer matches are described without detail on the sports pages, a tiff on the ice still gets the streamer headline. When Wembley Lions defeated Wembley Canada a few days ago before 10,000 fans, a "fracas" received amazing publicity in the press. What happened was that two players were sent off after they had come to blows. There was scarcely the light that one might have been led to suppose from front-page stories. The publicity, however, seems rather to lead the British sports followers into hockey arenas rather than drive him away. The crowds never have been as big.

Early English League contests have attracted capacity crowds. Spectators had to be turned away from the first home game of the Streatham Club, coached by the famous Babe Donnelly, former Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and professional defenceman. Donnelly led his team to a 2-1 victory over Wembley Lions and played a great game himself. Empire Stadium at Wembley had a full house for the Streatham - Wembley Canadians game. These teams met in the English final last spring when Streatham won and the Donnelly-coached outfit won this time, too. The newly-formed Sussex Tigers will make Brighton their headquarters.

A good many Canadian players are finding the English climate difficult to reach peak condition and keep it. Richmond's Hawks, coached by Percy Nicklin, late of Moncton's Canadian amateur champions, are potentially one of the strongest teams on that side of that water, but they haven't found themselves yet. They were beaten 7-2 by an all London team.
