The head, he said, was twice the size of that of a large sea lion. It was dull grey in color, with stripes near the head and the head itself very much darker than the body and tail.

While he was laying-to in order to investigate this strange creature more thoroughly, to his surprise suddenly arched its back and raised its head, just as a snake will do at least twenty feet, perhaps nore than that. When he finally eft the spot of the strange encounter, he said that he noticed that the creature was swimming but not travelling very fast, although he did not doubt that it was capable of great speed if neces-

> H. M. C. S. Armentierres, in the course of a north coast cruise, has I been a visitor in port since Thursday, tied up at the Canadian National wharf, off Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve headquarters. The vessel, which came here from the Queen Charlotte Islands, will leave on Sunday. Lieut. Smith R. C. N. R., until recently chief officer of the Canadian National steamer Lady Hawkins on the West Indies service, arrived here yesterday afternoon on the Princess Adelaide from Victoria to join the Armentierres.

Enthusiastic after a four and a half months' absence during which they made a cruise aboard H. M. C. S. Skeena through the Panama Canal to Trinidad, Bermuda and Jamaica, Pat Palmer, Pat Sims. Gordon Williscroft and William Grosvenor, ratings of the local unit of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve, returned home aboard the Princess Adelaide yesterday afternoon. The cruise proved both interesting and instructive and will give the lads something to talk about and describe to their buddies for a long time to come. Such training trips as these are among the rewards the R. C. N. V. citizen as Mr. Taylor returns from R. lads get for diligence and proficiency in their naval studies.
