

NEWTON FAVORS RECIPROCITY

It was so, he thought, with Canada and the reciprocity pact. This sentiment was his strongest card, and won him applause. He went on however, with a most unfortunate metaphor in which he pictured Miss Canada "making overtures to Uncle Sam during the years in which she was not in society," and now, "when she is more beautiful letting Jonathan throw bouquets at her to break down her sentiments." Here and there someone laughed but for the most part freezing silence greeted the unfortunate picture of Miss Canada "making overtures."

About this point Alderman Newton filled up the platform tumbler from the carafe remarking "I am awfully dry." (He was). His audience, however, exhorted him to "stay with it," as he was here and there amusing and they had been done out of Dr. Young.

One point in Mr. Newton's speech was greeted with loud applause. That was his quotation of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's famous saying "The twentieth century belongs to Canada!" His application of it was in connection with a retaliatory policy to pay the United States out for not having accepted Canada's offers of reciprocity before through the Conservative government channels. Alderman Newton said Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government looked to him extravagant, but he approved that in a newly developing country so rich as Canada. "Let them go to it, and spend to develop the country," summed up his sentiments.

Towards the end of his speech he said that as a family man his policy was to move along on a safe basis, and not take any chances he could help for fear he should wreck himself completely. On these lines he proceeded to make the statement that Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself had advocated this "Let well alone" policy frequently in reference to trade relations with the United States right up to within a year of the present reciprocity campaign. This statement brought forth the protest of Mr. Frank R. Angers which gave rise to the sensational incidents described on page one.

CANADIANS WILL PASS THE PACT

Vancouver Man Says Election is Called Merely to Put Government in the Right Light.

That the reciprocity measure will pass the Canadian Parliament is the opinion of Charles E. Brown, of Vancouver.

"Because the government has dissolved Parliament, and called a general election, many people this side of the line jump to the conclusion that there is to be a hard fight in Canada on the measure," said Mr. Brown. "Some even think the new election is to be held because there was a doubt as to whether or not the measure would pass at Ottawa under present conditions. These are entirely incorrect. The government realizes that the reciprocity agreement is one of the most important measures that has arisen in Canada in many years and does not wish to lay itself open to the charge of passing a measure which is not sanctioned by public opinion.

"At the election the voice of the people will return a verdict from the Atlantic to the Pacific in favor of reciprocity."

Better Alaska Conditions

Seattle, Sept. 14.—At a dinner at the Commercial Club Secretary Fisher forecasted the legislation which he would recommend for the amelioration of conditions in Alaska. The United States government owes it to Alaska, he said, to light the rocks, shoals and channels; to build roads and trails, especially in the interior, and to make larger appropriations for surveys, in the interest of the homesteader and mineral claimant.

Charged with Supplying

William Wollach was arrested this morning, charged with supplying Indians with liquor. The hearing of the case was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Miserable Political Humbug

Fred C. Wade, K. C., for some time Crown prosecutor in Dawson, at a recent meeting in Vancouver denounced the annexation cry as "a piece of miserable, partisan, absurd, contemptible, political humbug."

Feeling in Alaska

Telegraphic and other advices from Alaska are all to the effect that the people of that territory are so exasperated over the paralysis of the development of resources that they are talking revolution. Some weeks ago they were eager for annexation with Canada, but it is evident from the display of revolutionary spirit that they have come to the conclusion that they would do better to set up for themselves and manage their own affairs.—Vancouver Province.

paringly around the hall, summoned to the platform a scratch bunch. He called on Alderman S. M. Newton, and with him of all persons, Alderman John Hilditch, also H. Doyle, G. R. T. Sawle, O. H. Nelson and W. E. Fisher. The last two did not at first appear. Mr. Joseph Swift, however, took a seat on the platform which, with chairs for about twenty presented an irregular appearance at best. The audience, however, was good-humored, and waited developments patiently, and applauded the Chairman's announcement that the Mayor and Mr. Clements might possibly be in Rupert by Sunday afternoon, and that Mr. Clements would thereafter devote his attention to the city until polling date. Mr. Stephens then called upon Alderman Newton to address the meeting. His remarks are reported elsewhere in this issue, as also the circumstances of Mr. Frank Angers' effort to obtain a fair hearing which was refused him by the Chairman in the face of the demands of the audience that Mr. Angers should take the platform.
