POLICY IS ADOPTED

When the Liberal leader said that in case of war money would be found to carry on and in the same way he proposed to raise money to relieve unemployment and prevent the young men being sent to relief camps, he was undoubtedly adopting the words of Premier Pattullo who proposed the plan on the hustings during the last provincial election. It is an indication that Mr. King has adopted at least a part of the Pattullo policy on which the provincial premier has been so much criticized and to which Prime Minister Bennett listened sympathetically but failed to adopt.

Gradually it is being discovered that the Pattullo policy was a reasonable one and that work and wages will be adopted if the people return the Liberals, including Olof Hanson, at the polls on the fourteenth.

WHY BE ALL DREAMERS?

The dream of the C. C. F. in regard to eliminating private capital and private initiative from Canada will like most other dreams dissolve itself into thin air under the white light of publicity. Prince Rupert more than many places is a capitalistic city. Many of the fishermen are capitalists who own their own boats and gear and they would hate to have anyone claim that fishing should be nationalized and the owners of fishing boats be compelled to give up their rights to their property. True that is not mentioned in the wonderful platform set forth by the leaders of that party but it is the logical sequence of their other proposals. Professor King Gordon says the farmers will have to give up their lands to be worked on a co-operative basis and the next logical move would be to force the fishermen to give up their boats.

Leaders of the C. C. F. will doubtless say this is not their policy but these men would have little say in regard to it if the nationalization scheme once got fully under way. The proletariat junta would soon straighten them out as they did the karluks in Russia. Proposing a general nationalization policy is playing with fire and it is impossible to say whom it may burn.

RANGE OF PRICES

Editor, Daily News: A table taken from the Dominion statistical records shows the range of price of certain commodities between the years 1930 and 1933. These include wheat on the one hand and a variety of textiles on the other. The table disclosed that during these years when wheat decreased 34 percent in value from the 1926 price level, the cost of the textiles which the consumer would have to buy decreased much less; thus, dress gingham, 3 percent; cotton blankets, 9 percent; bleached cotton, 10 percent; print, 5 percent; and in the cases of Canadian gingham, rayon taffeta and rayon dress crepe, the price actually increased above the 1926 level.

The reason the decrease in the price of these manufactured goods has not equalled the decrease in the value of wheat is due to the tariff and to nothing else. This means one thing and one thing only, as far as the people of Western Canada are concerned, and that is that the producer has had to pay an increasingly large percentage of his income for his clothing and other necessities in order to swell the profits accruing to the shareholders in the protected industries.
