Moscow Issues Warning That War May Break Out Unexpectedly—Great Demonstrations of Strength In Berlin—Aerial Manoeuvres Tomorrow Night

LONDON, March 18: (CP)—The British ambassador presented a note today to the German government regarding Germany's sudden military announcement on Saturday, Parliament was told by Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary. The note was sent after consultation with France and Italy. Sir John also revealed that consultation with the United States and with the signatories of the Versailles treaty was also under consideration. Text of today's note was made public tonight following delivery to the German foreign minister. It informed Germany that Hitler's announcement of formation of a conscript army is seriously calculated to increase the uneasiness of Europe. The note incorporates a British protest.

Officialdom here speculates on how Germany's creation of an army of 500,000 men through universa conscription fits in with Germany's previous acceptance of the Anglo-French note as a basis for discussions which were scheduled to open a week hence in Berlin.

The French cabinet will meet on Wednesday, the delay being attributed to the French desire to permit Great Britain to formulate its policy.

At Moscow yesterday Michael Kalinin, president of the All Russia executive committee issued warning that war might break out unexpectedly and called upon Soviet armed forces to be prepared.

General apprehension is felt that Germany will also throw overboard the Versailles Treaty naval limitations.

Throughout Germany yesterday great military demonstrations took place and tomorrow night aerial manoeuvres over darkened Berlin will be carried out.

Armour Salvage Co. is Starting Now to Take Out Timber Near City

Falling Will Start Tomorrow and Camp Construction Also Getting Under Way—Is First Definite Move to Take Advantage of Concessions Given by Government

The Armour Salvage Co. is this week commencing logging operations on the upper side of Shawatlans Lake on limits secured from the railway company, the timber to be exported under the new arrangements made by the provincial and federal governments. Both hemlock and spruce logs will be taken out. The first donkey engine and other equipment is being taken in today by the power tug Pachena. Falling will start tomorrow and camp construction will also be under way at once. Capt. Reg Green will be in charge and at first some seven or so men will be employed, the crew to be increased to ten or fourteen in a couple of weeks. In June another donkey will be taken in.

The timber will at first be logged into Shawatlans Lake and later in the season will be taken out to the salt water. If all goes well, it may later develop into quite a sizeable operation.

The small gasboat "27" is being placed on the lake to be used in connection with the camp. The outfit is to be taken in by way of Shawatlans Arm, over the city dock and short railway.

It is the first definite move that has so far been made to take advantage of the concessions made by the government to encourage production of logs from this district for export. The timber will be shipped to the Orient, arrangements having been already made for the ships to come here and load.

ATTRACTING OF TOURISTS

Kindness and Liberality Gives Big Returns, Says Official

VANCOUVER, March 18:—Nothing could equal the praise of a tourist pleased with the reception he received away from home, said Thomas W. McDonough, general agent, Canadian National Railways, Jasper, in addressing the transportation bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade. Those cities, towns and resorts which cast the bread of kindness and liberality on the swelling stream of tourist traffic would receive in return repeat business that the largest campaigns could never draw.

Describing British Columbia as possessing a variety of tourist appeal unmatched elsewhere on the continent, Mr. McDonough praised the efforts of its various bodies to increase tourist traffic. He pointed out that tourist wealth was reaped at the expense of no one. It was new trade whose enjoyment was felt by all classes in the community.

Mr. McDonough pointed out that railway systems were pioneers in tourist development. They had never let up on their efforts to attract visitors and they welcomed the activities of other forces in this field.

Following a brief description of Jasper National Park the speaker showed a film of fishing in Maligne Lake, pointing out that fish propagation here a few years ago had returned its original investment a thousandfold.
