HEALTH INSURANCE PLAN

The department of the Provincial Secretary at Victoria has issued in booklet form a draft of a proposed measure for health insurance designed to provide protection against the hazards of illness. The measure, if it becomes law, will provide a plan under which employees may be provided with free medical attention, hospital services, nursing, maternity service, drugs, medical, surgical and optical supplies and various other services. The fees for these services shall be paid partly by the employer and partly by the employee, the former two percent of the whole payroll and the latter three percent of his wages. Thus a man earning $30 a week would pay into the fund 90c a week and the employer 60c a week, making a total of $1.50 a week to be remitted to the commission handling the fund of $6.00 for a four-week month. This amount seems rather high and would prove a considerable tax on the wages of the worker and the payroll of the employer. The scheme is planned to start as a voluntary one.

CANADIAN GEOGRAPHICAL JOURNAL

A monthly magazine that is a credit to the publishers and to Canada is the Canadian Geographical Journal. It is splendidly illustrated and well written and should have a very wide circulation among Canadians and especially among those engaged in educational work. The April number of the Canadian Geographical has interesting illustrated articles on "The Mounties in the Arctic," by Major General J. H. McBrien; "Sea Monsters of Nova Scotia," by Bonnycastle Dale jr.; "Whither Greece?", by Kenneth Matthews; "Rabine Lake," by Douglas C. G. Mackay; "Dublin—Past and Present," by Harold P. Feeney, and "Barbara Heck," by Frederic H. Wooding, as well as a number of regular departments. We take great pleasure in recommending this magazine to our readers.

SITUATION AT OTTAWA

The present situation at Ottawa is rather difficult to understand. Some of the correspondents declare that Mr. Bennett will never return to lead the government while others say that he will not only lead the House during the rest of the session but will also lead the party to victory at the coming election. Evidently Hon. R. B. Stevens is a thorn in the side of the first minister. It is said he would like to return to the cabinet but that Mr. Bennett will not take him. In the meantime gossip is busy selecting a successor to the Premier and Mr. Stevens is spoken of as a possibility for the position. One thing is evident that if Mr. Stevens should become Prime Minister, many of the present ministers of the crown will have to find a happy place in the Senate or give up politics altogether.

TITLE FOR PREMIER

In regard to the possibility of Mr. Bennett getting a title at the Jubilee celebration it is pointed out that His Majesty grants these titles on the advice of his responsible ministers. If Mr. Bennett gets one it will be on his own advice as chief advisor to the King. But perhaps Mr. Bennett will decide that it is better to remain a commoner, especially if he is to lead the party during the next election. If he accepts a title, the average person will say that the chief reason he had for flouting the decision of former parliaments was that he might get a title himself when his turn came. From this it is seen how obnoxious the whole title system is.
