> At Toulon three people were killed yesterday in disorders. Sixty other persons were also scriously injured by revolver shots and sent to hospitals, an undetermined number being slightly injured. The rioting, the gravest since the latest outbreak of violence throughout France, developed guddenly as naval shipyard and arsenal workers ran wild through the town, a mob of three thousand surging through the streets, smashing windows and firing revolvers at police and mobile guards who were continually forced to charge and fire into the demonstrators. Today Alaska Skipper it was reported that men were returning to work at the government arsenals both at Toulon and Brest.

The city of Paris is under virtual military control after a couple of hectic days in which one man was killed and numerous injured in rioting. Troops assisted the police in putting down disturbances and machine guns were used.
