ITEMS OF SPORT

Owner Farrell of the Yankees, announces that he has decided upon his manager for next year, and that his name is Chase, front name Hal. He will play first base.

Roy Hartzell, who was traded by St. Louis to the New York Highlanders, has helped the Yankees win more games from the Browns than any other one of Chase's players.

That young Washington third baseman, Morgan, looks like a find. He has a terrific wing, and in reality acts like an old stager, though he has just slipped by his nineteenth birthday.

Amradillo Marsens, Cuban player, would make a great hitter if he would use a bat. He bats with a toothpick, weighing about one-third as much as a regulation stick.

Arrangements were completed for a 20-round bout between Matty Baldwin of Boston and Frankie Burns of Oakland at Dreamland, San Francisco, September 29. They have agreed to make 133 pounds three hours before.

The arrangements for Ty Cobb's debut behind the footlights have been completed, and the contract signed. Vaughan Glaser, a personal friend of Cobb, will produce the play, which will be the "College Widow," revamped into a baseball drama, so that Ty can come to bat with bases loaded and make a clean-up.

Herman Werder, the pitcher given a trial by Connie Mack and then sent to the minors, is said to have been a failure this year because he was unnerved by a sad accident in which he severely injured a fellow player at York, Pa. His bat flew from his hands, hit the player, broke his nose and jaw and nearly killed him.

Vancouver and Tecumseh, Minn. cup holders and champions of the N. L. U. respectively, are busy arranging for the big series, East versus West, which will take place the latter part of the month, and although some obstacles regarding referees and other points have yet to be overcome, it is expected that the matches will take place all right. President Murphy of the N. L. U., has acting on behalf of the challengers, suggested September 30 and October 7 as dates for the matches.

Connie Mack has expressed himself as quite confident that the New York Giants are the team he will have to beat for the world's championship, and says: "The Athletics don't fear the Giants any more than they do the Cubs. They expect to win the series again, no matter which National League club they have to face. If New York wins they fully expect to atone for their defeat at the hands of the Giants in the big series of 1905."

Canadians are rapidly rushing to the front tier in sport and another decade of advance such as has just been passed through will place the Canucks at the top of the ladder. Recently five athletes from Toronto—Bobby Kerr, Arnold Knox, Alex Cameron, Jack Tressider and George Lester—went to Pittsburg to the Olympic sports, and made a clean-up of five firsts, one second and one third, which is going some. They also won a medley relay race, which is somewhat of an innovation. In the medley race, which was the feature of the day, being scheduled as All-Canada against the United States, Knox started off, running the mile, and gave the Canucks a great lead, which Bobby Kerr increased in the 220. Tressider held his own in the 440, and George Lester finished up away out in front in the half, which was the last lap of the race. The Canadian team got a great reception when they completed the day by their victory in the relay.

THE COSY CORNER

DEVOTED PRINCIPALLY TO THE INTERESTS OF WOMEN

This is a little section of the paper, which from day to day will be devoted to subjects of special interest to women. Any and all of the ladies of Prince Rupert are invited to contribute to its columns, and to take part in its discussions. Suggestions and criticisms are invited by the editor. The hope is expressed that "The Cosy Corner" will fill a social need.

SILK AND STRAW CHAPEAU

A chic French hat just over is of the bonnet or scoop shape, with a wonderfully draped crown of taffeta. The joining of this to straw brim is covered with a wreath of small roses. Despite its simplicity it is indeed charming.

New York Fashions

The new season promises to be one of modifications and revivals in fashions rather than one of radical departures. Practically all of the best features of the summer modes are retained, but with new details and developed in new materials, they are bound to take on almost the novelty of entirely new ideas.

The kimono sleeve, the turic, the stole-like panels, sashes, and all of the trimming methods that have charmed us during the last few months, are gradually re-appearing in such new guises that they are more effective. The materials for fall are soft and pliable, even though there is a greater number of heavy thick-looking fabrics than usual, but they lend themselves to graceful draperies and flowing lines quite as readily as did the lawns and baistes of summer.

All the satin-surfaced fabrics and the lovely dull-lustre silks are back, but it is the rough tweeds, and the silky camel's hair and zibelines that catch the eye first. Within a few weeks now they will be noted among the smartest of street costumes, not only in coat and skirt suits, with the new half-length coat, but in dresses which, with furs, will be worn right through the winter. They will figure, too, in separate coats.

The color note is an important item, combinations that are most unusual being considered most successful. Old blue and a faint, silvery blue are used with tobacco; dark blue with cigar brown and a blue purple, with all less definite shades. Mahogany, which is a prime favorite, will be used with black only; striped zibelines combine well with velvet of deep shades and particularly well with black; navy is trimmed with light blue, with any of the green blues, with black and white stripes or rich black.

LOTS OF TOURISTS

Three Years from Now Will Come to Rupert

Calgary, Sept. 24.—Banff Springs hotel entertained over 22,000 guests from May 15 to August 30, an increase of 6,452 over the corresponding period in 1910. During the months of July and August 308 guests occupied berths in sleeping cars on the track as an overflow from the hotel. During the period from July 22 to September 2, 886 people enjoyed the new golf links.

Manager McAler of the Nationals, says that Larry Lajoie will be on his all-star team this fall, the club that will play the American League pennant winners to pine them for the world's series with the victorious team in the National League. Jim says that no all-star team is complete without the big Frenchman enrolled thereon.

THE OLD LOCHINVAR

The old Lochinvar was considerable sport, He picked out a sweet little broiler to court; Though save for his money of charms he had none, Still that was enough by itself all alone. And to strengthen his chances, right there at the start, He gave her five millions to win her young heart.

There was arching of eyebrows and sneers of disdain, There was comment in public both pointed and plain, And parsons and preachers a near and afar All swore they'd not marry the old Lochinvar. But with millions behind him and Force on his side, He would not relinquish his charming young bride.

There were howls from the pulpit and jeers from the press; In the home of the bride there was tears and distress; And none were too wealthy or poor to deride The old Lochinvar and his five-million bride. But the old Lochinvar was exceedingly game, And he clung to the girl with the breakfast-food name.

FASHIONS FOR MEN

Pointers on What Will be Worn This Fall A large clothing house has produced a reversible overcoat in 26 and 28 ounce double-faced fabric cravenetted. It is worn either as a grey with a regular shoulder, or as a brown overcoat with a raglan shoulder. There are really two distinct coats in one.

In double-breasted, three-button overcoats for dress occasions, very dark blues are going to be favored in Paris this year.

In Paris, trouserings patterned with stripes placed far apart are meeting with a marked demand. Greys and mixtures in black and white are leaders.

Shoes of mahogany shade with socks to match have made their appearance in London, the former in brogue pattern and the latter with a neat clock at the side.

Manufacturers who are featuring silver greys, strongly in their shirting lines have struck upon a vogue which is in high favor with the better class trade in London at the present time.

Harris and Donegal tweeds in rich browns, heather and dull green mixtures, as well as Ben-nockburns are in demand for hunting season wear in England.

The watch chain that accords with fashions requirement at the present time is in many cases of very fine links in dull gold. Fobs, are, of course, still very much in vogue.

There are, perhaps, a half dozen really desirable tenants who would feel that they were actually "lucky" to have learned about your property—and they all read ads!
