COCKTAIL DIPLOMACY

The Council of the League of Nations, wearied of trying to adjust the troubled affairs of Italy and Abyssinia adjourned to hold a large cocktail party in Geneva, says the Vancouver Sun editorially.

We are inclined to think that, after all, the League has at last hit upon a subtler form of international diplomacy than can ever be achieved in a formal council chamber.

For if some of the new cocktails we have tasted lately were served in Geneva, certainly the potentialities of the party were limitless.

Three of four Sidecars or a few Bloody Marys would bring agreement to almost any gathering.

It is said that when the "wine is in the wit is out." Well the League has been working its wits for weeks on this problem.

Why not take a crack at it now with absolutely no wits at all?

The only weak spot discernible in this League cocktail party is the notable absence of both Premier Mussolini and Emperor Haile Selassie.

Think what wonders might have been accomplished had these two been brought together under the potent aegis of a few Bloody Marys!

Ten drinks and Haile Selassie would have been matching pennies with the Italian delegates. Fifteen drinks and Mussolini would have been wearing Haile Selassie's hat.

And how can anybody go to war with a fellow whose hat he has worn in the exuberant fellowship of the flowing bowl?

We regard with relief the League's recourse to the cocktail as a means of settling international difficulties.

We view with disappointment the failure of Mussolini and the Ethiopian Emperor to be there.

Somehow we would have liked to picture the stern Duce reeling from the drawing room hiccupping "Ah-dis Ahwahwa" which is (we are credibly informed, the way "Addis Ababa" should be pronounced.

Stan Moran, playing manager, also hit the .500 mark but he only batted six times, having pulled a "Charlie horse" in the second game. Simonson, star outfielder for the Elks in the City League, was next with eight hits in seventeen times for an average of .471.

Roy Fong, leading hitter in the local loop, was away off color at Smithers and failed to get a single hit in 17 attempts. Johnny Comadina, also a member of the Big Six in the city, failed to register in eight trips to the plate.

Wiley Post And Will Rogers Are On Way North

SEATTLE, Aug. 7.—Wiley Post, noted American long distance flier, not waiting for an improvement in the unfavorable weather conditions which have been prevailing along the British Columbia and Southeastern Alaska coast, took off at 9:15 this morning for Juneau in the course of his projected flight to Siberia and possibly Moscow. Post is being accompanied to Juneau by Will Rogers, famous screen comedian.

Mrs. Post, who flew here from California with her husband, decided that the rest of the trip "may be too strenuous" and left Post and Rogers, old cronies of the air, to go together, remaining here herself.

Everybody reads the Daily News here's a reason.

Dependence of Canadian Communities upon the C. N. R.

Even a brief study of the map of Canada will show how widespread in a geographical sense, are the transportation facilities afforded by Canadian National Railways. From the Atlantic to the Pacific and North and South from its main lines the C. N. R. serves practically every important section of the Dominion.

Along its 22,000 miles of track in Canada are 4,550 C. N. R. Depots or Stations. Some of the larger centres of population, (from which comes, of course, much of the company's revenues), are not dependent solely on the C. N. R. for their railroad requirements, but over four thousand stations, or approximately ninety per cent of the company's total stations in Canada, are located at points where the only rail transportation service available is that provided by Canadian National Railways.

Almost without exception these stations serve communities, varying in size and wealth, which produce commodities required in other parts of Canada or abroad. In their turn they are purchasers from manufacturers and merchants throughout the Dominion. They are thus highly important in the economic structure of the country, and in providing the means of transportation for passengers and freight Canadian National Railways is performing an essential service . . . one which, indeed, is of tremendous significance in enabling Canada to exist as a complete and united national entity.

As will be readily understood, many of these communities are only in the early stages of their development . . . their growth has in all too many cases been retarded by the economic conditions of the past few years . . . but their potentialities, under happier trade conditions, are beyond computation. Further, the people who live in them and who are building the Canada of the future have claims to railway service as a necessary adjunct to their welfare which must be seriously considered.

This aspect of the services rendered by Canadian National Railways will command the approval of all who have faith in the destiny of Canada. Without adequate patronage however from the public as a whole, the performance of these services becomes a matter of great difficulty, if not of impossibility.

Canadian National Railways is operated economically. It stands ready to deliver the best service possible in railway facilities . . . transportation, telegraphs, express, hotels . . . and it is on this basis that the C. N. R. solicits your cooperation in the great and nationally important work performed under all conditions and throughout the entire year.

During the present Summer season the C. N. R. is providing special fares and excursions between points throughout Canada. These are exceptional travel bargains. The nearest C. N. R. agent will be glad to give full particulars.
