JAPANESE CONSUL SHOWS HOW TRADE IMPASSE BETWEEN HIS COUNTRY AND CANADA AROSE

While the exchange value of the Japanese yen had been stabilized at about 30c, according to Canadian regulations, the duty was imposed not on the current exchange rate but on the proclaimed rate of almost 50 cents. However this was later reduced to 41½c.

The speaker said that Canada undoubtedly was justified in imposing a duty in 1931 because she was at that time suffering a very acute economic depression and her world trade was adverse, this forcing her to adopt protective measures. With the improvement of conditions and with exports to Japan last year amounting to sixteen and a half millions as against imports from Japan of only about four and a half million, Japan was shown to be a very valuable customer of Canada. Yet Japan's export to Canada was stifled by means of customs restrictions and high tariffs.

More Equitable Basis

Mr. Ishii urged that, considering the situation, some concessions and adjustment should be made to bring about a more equitable basis of trade. He showed what was being done with Australia where more favorable trade conditions had been established, no quotas or restrictions being imposed on Japanese goods. A trade treaty between the two countries is planned in order to facilitate the exchange of goods to their mutual advantage.

In negotiating with Ottawa, the request of Japan for some adjustment was not answered for half a year. It was a grave mistake of the Ottawa government. This irritated Japan. However, efforts for improved conditions were continued and his country showed willingness to co-operate with the Canadian government by suggesting that their government would control exports to Canada. Canada offered a counter-proposal but the concessions were so small that they did not improve the position of Japan.

Japan then placed a 50% ad valorem surtax on Canadian goods just as Mr. Bennett agreed to a concession in regard to the valuation of the yen. The Canadian government immediately imposed a 33 1-3% ad valorem duty on Japanese goods and since then the trade between the two countries had practically stopped.

Mr. Bennett asked for a conference in regard to the position of the two countries but the Japanese proposals had been refused. Japan was a believer in free trade and the tax imposed upon Canadian goods was imposed for the purpose of calling attention to the desirability of removing barriers which hamper trade. As soon as the Japanese government is relieved of the heavy burden hampering trade between the two countries she will be ready and anxious to cancel her imposition, Mr. Ishii said.

The consul spoke of the close associations of the two countries and their desire for co-operation, thanked the Rotary Club for the opportunity of speaking to it and urged a study of the question with a view to resumption of trade relations to their mutual advantage.

President W. M. Blackstock thanked Mr. Ishii for his impartial presentation of the case and urged all to give it proper consideration.

BIG TASK OF CARDS

Crucial National League Series Is Resumed Today—Only One Game Played Yesterday

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27: (CP)—With the playing of a double-header, on which the eyes of the baseball world are rivetted, Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals this afternoon resume their conflict involving the National League pennant for this year. The Cards face the almost impossible task of winning four straight games over the Cubs, who have won the last 19 straight, if they are to tie up the standing.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, by virtue of a double-header victory over the New York Giants on Wednesday, now bid fair to end up the season in the leadership of the second division ahead of the Cincinnati Reds although the issue has not yet been definitely settled.

In the only Big League game yesterday New York Yankees, playing at the Yankee Stadium, doubled the score of the Washington Senators, the final count being 4 to 2.
