Another PROSPECT

All the countless thousands who buy newspapers every day are potential customers of those who offer goods for sale to the consuming public.

Practically every merchant in Canada will lose customers in 1935—a law of business. This loss must be replaced or his business will die. The trader who loses customers, even to the danger point, can find them again and increase his turnover by good merchandising linked with advertising in the daily newspapers.

People are reading daily newspapers as never before, not from curiosity, but from need to know today the best things offered to supply their daily wants.

Lost markets, which are only other words for lost customers, are now being regained by you or acquired by others. You owe it to yourself and to your business to keep in touch through the newspapers every day with the Canadian buying public.
